Vass Jr, James Vass Jr, 2003-05-13 This book is a study of UW men's basketball fans during the 2001-2002 season and explores their proclivity to cheering for self during basketball events The term basketball event is used rather than basketball game to make clear that everything connected to and seen heard or experienced before during and after a basketball game is included The actual game itself is only part of the basketball event An undercurrent runs throughout this participant observation mini ethnography dealing with access and the relative quality of that access to basketball events being affected by one's age class race and gender The prominent role of advertising in shaping basketball events and helping to construct fans as consumers of products both commercial and institutional during the process of cheering for self is central to this idea Cheering for self is the activity engaged in by individual fans after they find things to identify or connect with through personal investment Fans cheer for self indirectly Fans cheer for the team that they identify with Through the process of cheering for self while attending the basketball event people are taught how to become fans to consume a UW product the basketball event and to consume advertisers products People have a tendency to spend their entire life trying to impress others The Publishers Weekly, 1992 Constructionism in Practice Yasmin B. Kafai, Mitchel Resnick, 2012-11-12 The digital revolution necessitates but also makes possible radical changes in how and what we learn This book describes a set of innovative educational research projects at the MIT Media Laboratory illustrating how new computational technologies can transform our conceptions of learning education and knowledge The book draws on real world education experiments conducted in formal and informal contexts from inner city schools and university labs to neighborhoods and after school clubhouses The papers in this book are divided in four interrelated sections as follows Perspectives in Constructionism further develops the intellectual underpinnings of constructionist theory This section looks closely at the role of perspective taking in learning and discusses how both cognitive and affective processes play a central role in building connections between old and new knowledge Learning through Design analyzes the relationship between designing and learning and discusses ways that design activities can provide personally meaningful contexts for learning This section investigates how and why children can learn through the processes of constructing artifacts such as games textile patterns robots and interactive devices Learning in Communities focuses on the social aspects of constructionist learning recognizing that how people learn is deeply influenced by the communities and cultures with which they interact It examines the nature of learning in classroom inner city and virtual communities Learning about Systems examines how students make sense of biological technological and mathematical systems This section explores the conceptual and epistemological barriers to learning about feedback self organization and probability and it discusses new technological tools and activities that can help people develop new ways of thinking about these phenomena Freud on Sublimation Volney Patrick

Gay,1992-01-01 This book is the only full length treatment of the relationship between aesthetic truths and psychoanalytic discoveries of art artists and a new concept of sublimation It provides a radical and unique study of the concept of sublimation and proposes a modest replacement for it In the first third of the book the author reviews critically the psychoanalytic sources of the concept of sublimation In the second third he shows how the concept developed from Freud s nineteenth century notions of perception In the last third he revises a concept of sublimation using a contemporary theory of perception In the final chapter he examines four works of literature short stories of John Cheever a Japanese novel portions of Hamlet and sublimation and perversion in Orson Welles Citizen Kane Hardware Retailing ,1982-07 The Prepper
