Effective Instruction for All Students in PreK-2 Paula J. Clarke, Emma Truelove, Charles Hulme, Margaret J. Snowling, 2013-12-04 Developing Reading Comprehension In recent years the debate about teaching young children to read has tended to focus upon equipping them with the crucially important knowledge and skills they need to read words accurately in and out of context that is to say teaching them how the alphabet works for reading and spelling. While such knowledge and skills are essential more is required for children to become literate fluent readers who understand what they read. In short the goal of reading is comprehension. This book scrupulously examines the obstacles to reading comprehension and exemplifies what can be done to help children overcome them. It is an important and timely contribution to securing high quality teaching of the range of attributes children need to become fully fledged readers. Sir Jim Rose CBE The studies by Professors Charles Hulme and Maggie Snowling and their team over two decades based around the Reading Intervention Programme are the most sustained comprehensive and rigorous research series on reading yet conducted in the UK. Their increasing focus on children who experience the most difficulty in reading is exactly where attention should be directed. This volume summarises the team's achievements to date and is most eagerly awaited. Methods in Reading Comprehension Research David E. Kieras, Marcel A. Just, 2018-04-17. Published in 1984, this volume presents methodologies for studying the ongoing psychological processes that occur as a person reads a text, as well as discussing the major findings that these methodologies have produced to provide a handbook of reading comprehension research techniques. Focusing on the comprehension processes that occur when a person is reading rather than the representation that remains after the text has been read, the methodologies use measures such as reading times that reflect ongoing processes rather than relying exclusively on conventional measures of memory performance such as recall. These methods make use of computer technology for rapid and flexible stimulus representation and data acquisition. This book will allow researchers and students to select appropriate methodologies to investigate a range of fascinating questions about reading comprehension.
