Teaching Reading in Content Areas Harold L. Herber,1970 By the time an elementary or secondary school student has finished a course much of what he has learned may already be outdated Clearly learning of facts cannot be the main goal of formal education Students must be prepared to understand key concepts and know how to acquire further knowledge on their own This practical guide book for elementary and secondary school teachers is founded on two basic premises 1 Students need to be taught how to learn and 2 too few teachers know how to guide their students learning to develop content and process at the same time Many practice assumptive teaching giving assignments without adequate guidance and assuming students know how to learn the material assigned Teaching Reading in Content Areas is a guide to teachers of basic school subjects English social studies mathematics science who wish to teach learning skills along with subject matter At the same time it offers ways to modify suggested procedures The book is deliberately designed to give teachers the experiences they are encouraged to give their students to show them how to do what they are asked to do technical vocabulary is explained at beginnings of chapters Study guide materials accompanying chapters are like those to be used in content areas Ample illustrative lesson materials accompany explanations Procedures have been tested in the classroom by experienced teachers and specific guides to each of the basic subject areas English social studies mathematics and science are given A separate bibliography appears at the end of the book

Content Area Reading and Learning Diane Lapp,James Flood,Nancy Farnan,2005-04-11 How can teachers make content area learning more accessible to their students This text addresses instructional issues and provides a wealth of classroom strategies to help all middle and secondary teachers effectively enable their students to develop both content concepts and strategies for continued learning The goal is to help teachers model through excellent instruction the importance of lifelong content area learning This working textbook provides students maximum interaction with the information strategies and examples presented in each chapter Content Area Reading and Learning Instructional Strategies Third Edition is organized around five themes Content Area Reading An Overview The Teacher and the Text The Students The Instructional Program School Culture and Environment in Middle and High School Classrooms Pedagogical features Each chapter includes a graphic organizer a chapter overview a Think Before Reading Activity one or more Think While Reading Activities and a Think After Reading Activity The activities present questions and scenarios designed to integrate students previous knowledge and experience with their new learnings about issues related to content area reading literacy and learning and to serve as catalysts for thinking and discussions New in the Third Edition The latest information on literacy strategies in every content area Research based strategies for teaching students to read informational texts Up to date information for differentiating instruction for English speaking and non English speaking students An examination of youth culture and the role it plays in student learning A look at authentic learning in contexts related to the world of work Ways of using technology and media literacy to support content learning Suggestions for using writing in every content area to enhance student learning Ideas for using multiple texts for learning content A focus on the assessment instruction connection Strategies for engaging and motivating students Content Area Reading and Learning Instructional Strategies Third Edition is intended as a primary text for courses on middle and high school content area literacy and learning

Content Reading and Literacy Donna E. Alvermann, Stephen F. Phelps, 2005 The Fourth Edition Builds on Past Strengths and Adds New Ones Student Centered Culturally Diverse Students Evidence Based Standards Written by renowned authors Donna Alvermann and Steven Phelps the Fourth Edition includes more emphasis and information on addressing the literacy needs of English language learners and culturally diverse students a new focus on evidence based practices and standards and key information on newer frameworks for reading and writing instruction such as the sociocultural New Literacies Framework that equips students to teach content area literacy from a student centered approach What Continues to Make This Book a Best Seller Increased discussion of English language learners New evidence based research icons highlighting current research New standards icons from various subject areas help pre service teachers make the connection on how content area literacy instruction helps them meet the standards in their disciplines New writing icons throughout the chapters point to writing examples Thoroughly revised Chapter 7 Reading to Learn New information for all of the content areas in every chapter is represented in the examples lessons vignettes and scenarios making it easier for students enrolled from different discipline areas to locate content specific relevant examples Ringing Endorsements for Content Area Reading and Literacy Fourth Edition Chapter 14 Teaching for Diversity This is an excellent chapter that certification students and other graduate students can use to understand more about the types of diversity categories that are present in instructional settings This textbook is excellent for students Lavernia F Hutchison University of Houston Central Campus There are many strengths in this text I particularly like the way it is laid out I believe that helping the students to see the importance of content literacy from the very beginning is extremely important Immediately following this topic the students then move directly into diversity which includes the understanding the meaning of language and culture Both of these topics form the basis for the rest of the course Overall I believe that this book is an excellent text for teaching in the Content Area Randy M Wood Baylor University The strengths of this text include the authors in depth knowledge of the field of content area reading Their chapter on assessing textbooks is invaluable for secondary teachers who don't understand the difficulty of some textbooks and the problems these texts can cause students The chapter on multiculturalism and the ESL learner is a strength The chapter on vocabulary is outstanding Patricia J Pollifrone Gannon University Please visit the book specific website at <http://www.ablongman.com/alvermann4e> to learn more

Reading in Secondary Content Areas Zhihui Fang, Mary Schleppegrell, 2008 What does it mean to teach reading in the context of the middle and high school classroom Don't students already know how to read by the time they get to secondary school And how can a busy teacher take time away from the packed curriculum of science history mathematics or language arts to teach reading This book presents a linguistic approach to teaching reading in different subjects an approach that focuses on language itself Central to this approach is a view that knowledge is constructed in and through language and that language changes with changes in knowledge As students move from elementary to secondary schools they encounter specialized knowledge and engage in new contexts of learning in all subjects This means that the language of secondary school learning is quite different from the language of the elementary years While in the elementary years the subject matter of reading materials is often close to students everyday life experiences the curriculum of secondary school deals with knowledge that is removed from students personal lives and everyday contexts The language that constructs this more specialized knowledge thus tends to be more abstract technical information laden and hierarchically organized than the more familiar and friendly language that students typically encounter during the elementary years Students need to develop specialized literacies literacy relevant to each content area as well as a critical literacy they can use across subject areas to engage with reflect on and assess specialized and advanced knowledge This functional language analysis approach is shown using actual secondary social studies science and math textbooks and using a literary text
