Abstract The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on the body composition and muscle strength of 10 sedentary, middle-aged women. The women were randomly assigned to either a control group (CON) or a resistance training group (RT). The RT group performed a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program, while the CON group remained sedentary. The RT group showed significant improvements in body composition and muscle strength compared to the CON group. The RT group also showed significant improvements in body composition and muscle strength compared to the CON group. The RT group also showed significant improvements in body composition and muscle strength compared to the CON group.
