Making Believe:

Making Believe Lisa Bode, 2017-07-07 In the past twenty years we have seen the rise of digital effects cinema in which the human performer is entangled with animation collaged with other performers or inserted into perilous or fantastic situations and scenery Making Believe sheds new light on these developments by historicizing screen performance within the context of visual and special effects cinema and technological change in Hollywood filmmaking through the silent early sound and current digital eras Making Believe incorporates North American film reviews and editorials actor and crew interviews trade and fan magazine commentary actor training manuals and film production publicity materials to discuss the shifts in screen acting practice and philosophy around transfiguring makeup doubles motion capture and acting to absent places or characters Along the way it considers how performers and visual and special effects crew work together and struggle with the industry critics and each other to define the aesthetic value of their work in an industrial system of technological reproduction Bode opens our eyes to the performing illusions we love and the tensions we experience in wanting to believe in spite of our knowledge that it is all make believe in the end

Making Believe Magdalene Redekop, 2020-04-10 Making Believe responds to a remarkable flowering of art by Mennonites in Canada After the publication of his first novel in 1962 Rudy Wiebe was the only identifiable Mennonite literary writer in the country Beginning in the 1970s the numbers grew rapidly and now include writers Patrick Friesen Sandra Birdsell Di Brandt Sarah Klassen Armin Wiebe David Bergen Miriam Toews Carrie Snyder Casey Plett and many more A similar renaissance is evident in the visual arts including artists Gathie Falk Wanda Koop and Aganetha Dyck and in music including composers Randolph Peters Carol Ann Weaver and Stephanie Martin Confronted with an embarrassment of riches that resist survey Magdalene Redekop opts for the use of case studies to raise questions about Mennonites and art Part criticism part memoir Making Believe argues that there is no such thing as Mennonite art At the same time her close engagement with individual works of art paradoxically leads Redekop to identify a Mennonite sensibility at play in the space where artists from many cultures interact Constant questioning and commitment to community are part of the Mennonite dissenting tradition Although these values come up against the legacy of radical Anabaptist hostility to art Redekop argues that the Early Modern roots of a contemporary crisis of representation are shared by all artists Making Believe posits a Spielraum or play space in which all artists are dissembling tricksters but differences in how we play are inflected by where we come from The close readings in this book insist on respect for difference at the same time as they invite readers to find common ground while making believe across cultures

Make-Believe David Dickinson,2020-01-30 I will tell you a story that will make you believe in God No story can guarantee being able to do this Yet novelists can tell stories that make us think about what we believe about God and why Despite repeated predictions of the death of the novel thousands of works of fiction are published and read in Britain each year Although Western society is less religiously observant than it was many 21st century novelists persist in pursuing theological religious and spiritual themes Make Believe seeks to explain why With chapters offering analyses of novels from several genres so called literary fiction historical fiction science fiction fantasy and dystopia David Dickinson discusses a wide spectrum of novelists Authors who are avowedly atheistic and authors who have a vested interest in perpetuating biblical stories are both featured Well known writers such as Rushdie McEwan McCarthy and Martell rub shoulders with some you may be meeting for the first time Appealing to literature students and people who simply enjoy reading whether Christian or not this study of God in novels invites us to open our minds and allow aspects of our culture to shape our understanding of God and to change our ways of talking about the divine

The Natural History of Make-believe John Goldthwaite,1996 The Man in the Moon has dropped down to earth for a visit Over the hedge a rabbit in trousers is having a pipe with his evening paper Elsewhere Alice is passing through a looking glass Dorothy riding a tornado to Oz and Jack climbing a beanstalk to heaven To enter the world of children s literature is to journey to a realm where the miraculous and the mundane exist side by side a world that is at once recognizable and real and enchanted Many books have probed the myths and meanings of children s stories but Goldthwaite s Natural History is the first exclusively to survey the magic that lies at the heart of the literature From the dish that ran away with the spoon to the antics of Brer Rabbit and Dr Seuss s Cat in the Hat Goldthwaite celebrates the craft the invention and the inspired silliness that fix these tales in our minds from childhood and leave us in a state of wondering to know how these things can be Covering the three centuries from the fairy tales of Charles Perrault to Maurice Sendak s Where the Wild Things Are he gathers together all the major imaginative works of America Britain and Europe to show how the nursery rhyme the fairy tale and the beast fable have evolved into modern nonsense verse and fantasy Throughout he sheds important new light on such stock characters as the fool and the fairy godmother and on the sources of authors as diverse as Carlo Collodi Lewis Carroll and Beatrix Potter His bold claims will inspire some readers and outrage others He hails Pinocchio for example as the greatest of all children s books but he views C S Lewis s The Chronicles of Narnia as a parable that is not only murderously misogynistic but deeply blasphemous as well Fresh incisive and utterly original this rich literary history will be required reading for anyone who cares about children s books and their enduring influence on how we come to see the world
