Potter, 2002 Potter communications U of Ottawa formerly a senior strategist in the Communications Bureau at the Canadian Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade DFAIT argues that advances in information technology will act as catalysts for forces of fragmentation and integration in the current international system He presents seven contributions that explore the theoretical implications of the growth of information technologies and test their ideas on how the processes have manifested and the DFAIT Also discussed are the ability of NGOs and social movements to use communication technologies to resist multilateral trade agreements the impact of CNN and other global television phenomena and the possibilities that governments can use information technologies to enhance their public diplomacy and their soft power Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Early Shortwave Stations Jerome S. Berg, 2013-10-04 In July 1923 less than three years after Westinghouse station KDKA signed on company engineer Frank Conrad began regular simulcasting of its programs on a frequency in the newly discovered shortwave range It was an important event in a technological revolution that would make dependable worldwide radio communication possible for the first time In subsequent years countless stations in practically all countries followed suit taking to shortwave to extend reception domestically or reach audiences thousands of miles away Shortwave broadcasting would also have an important role in World War II and in the Cold War In this his fourth book on shortwave broadcast history the author revisits the period of his earlier work On the Short Waves 1923 1945 and focuses on the stations that were on the air in those early days The year by year account chronicles the birth and operation of the large international broadcasters as well as the numerous
