Health Care in Canada Katherine Fierlbeck,2011-01-01 Health Care in Canada examines the challenges faced by the Canadian health care system a subject of much public debate In this book Katherine Fierlbeck provides an in depth discussion of how health care decisions are shaped by politics and why there is so much disagreement over how to fix the system Many Canadians point to health care as a source of national pride others are highly critical of the system s shortcomings and call for major reform Yet meaningful debate cannot occur without an understanding of how the system actually operates In this overview Fierlbeck outlines the basic framework of the health care system with reference to specific areas such as administration and governance public health human resources drugs and drug policy and mental health She also discusses alternative models in other countries such as Britain the United States and France As health care becomes increasingly complex it is crucial that Canadians have a solid grasp of the main issues within both the policy and political environments With its balanced and accessible assessment of the main political and theoretical debates Health Care in Canada is an essential guide for anyone with a stake in Canada s health system

Jacket Profit Is Not the Cure Maude Barlow,2011-02-18 On July 12 1966 the Medical Care Insurance Act was passed by the federal House of Commons after a ferocious public debate that pitted the vast majority of Canadians against a powerful alliance of business insurance companies and doctors More than thirty years later the same battle is being fought all over again Only now the forces opposed to medicare are more ideologically unified more richly endowed and tied to transnational corporations whose power exceeds that of entire countries In Profit Is Not the Cure Maude Barlow traces the history of medicare in Canada She compares it with both public and private systems in other parts of the world And she contrasts it with the brutally divisive system that exists in the United States where forty four million people have no medical insurance and millions more get minimal care through profit driven health maintenance organizations From the point of view of most patients the United States health care model is a disaster But the proponents of privatization in Canada supported by the right wing media and corporate lobbyists are determined to impose American style reforms on the Canadian public Three provinces British Columbia Alberta and Ontario are moving ahead rapidly to enlarge the role of commerce in the provision of health care services They are introducing user fees delisting procedures that previously were covered and encouraging private corporations to move into areas that used to be the exclusive domain of the public system While the prime minister and federal cabinet have paid lipservice to the principles of medicare they have made it clear by their actions that they will do nothing to impede the destruction of those principles by the provinces In fact their enthusiastic support of NAFTA and the impending Free Trade Agreement of the Americas FTAA and General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS has made the defence of medicare increasingly difficult Canadians overwhelmingly support medicare Many however have been persuaded that it is a luxury we can no longer afford Maude Barlow argues that this proposition is wrong An earlier generation fought a bitter battle to bring medicare into existence Another battle must be fought now to save it But we owe it to the founders of the system as well as to future generations to take up the cause again This important book shows the way Money, Politics and Health Care Institute for Research on Public Policy, Queen's University (Kingston, Ont.). Institute of Intergovernmental Relations, 2004 Current tensions in intergovernmental fiscal arrangements are thus important impediment to improving the health care system At the same time the failure of provinces to correct health care problems acts a serious irritant in intergovernmental relations creating a vicious cycle where deficiencies in intergovernmental fiscal relations make health care reform difficult while failures to effect health care reform increase conflict between the provinces and the federal government This collection of essays analyses key issues in federal provincial health care relations particularly the fiscal component The authors look at why there is a role for the federal government in health care and consider the critical issues in recent intergovernmental political battles over this role The issues of whether the vertical federal provincial fiscal imbalance is myth or reality how much the federal government does and should contribute financially to provincial health care programs and methods for settling disputes such as those over user fees are discussed The authors also provide concrete proposals for reconstructing the federal provincial partnership Contributors include Keith Banting Queen's University Robin Boadway Queen's University David Cameron University of Toronto Harvey Lazar Jennifer McCrea Logie France St Hilaire and Jean Francois Tremblay The EU and Federalism Dr Finn Laursen, 2013-03-28 Tracing the evolution of federalist theory and the European Union EU an international line up of distinguished experts debate the pros and cons of treating the EU in a comparative context and ask whether a constitutional equilibrium has been reached in the EU They examine policymaking or modes of governance in the areas of employment health environment security and migration comparing the EU's policies with policies of both international organisations like NATO OECD and federal states such as Canada Japan and South Africa
