Reclaiming The City Innovation Culture Experience:

Reclaiming the City Marjaana Niemi, Ville Vuolanto, 2003 This book provides historical and comparative perspectives on topical questions examining in particular the impact of global and local forces on urban development in the long term the cities capacity to rise to the challenge and their continuous needs to both enhance and contain diversity These themes are developed by exploring different aspects of urban development such as counter urbanisation cultural innovations changes in spatial form migration and identity formation

The World of Ladoga Jukka Korpela, 2008 This book is one of the first to focus on Medieval and Early Modern state formation on the north eastern periphery of Europe Researchers have traditionally perceived an East West conflict between Sweden and Novgorod concerning the late medieval colonization of the northern forest areas but it seems that the East Fennoscandian boreal forest zone was not an unpopulated area at that time but was a landscape inhabited by heterogeneous hunting and fishing populations and possessing another kind of culture The ways of life of these populations can be observed by coordinating various bodies of palaeoecological palaeobotanic genetic meteorological folkloristic philological and archaeological material The traditional written sources did not extend to this area and its nature is only reflected in the expansion and organization of the European Christian culture and power both Russian and Swedish Also the increasing number of source documents the growing population as reflected in those written documents and the expansion of arable cultivation do not indicate any real colonization but simply a change of the existing economic system from a semi nomadic hunting and fishing economy to a field based agriculture in response to the expansion of regular taxation and state control Seen from this perspective the people who earlier were invisible gradually become visible in the sources The East Fennoscandian boreal forest zone was a European periphery during the Viking Age but was connected to the European exchange of goods through the same waterways that also brought the first Christian cultural impact The European economic crisis of the 14th Century nevertheless excluded the area from the late medieval process of state formation and it became an object of both Muscovite and Swedish interests only after the end of the 15th Century This meant the formation of parishes the organization of an early local administration with regular taxation the permanent stationing of military forces the establishment of a physical border and the assimilation of the local people into European culture accompanied by marginalization of the traditional forms of life

Invisible Bicycle ,2018-09-11 The Invisible Bicycle brings together different insights into the social cultural and economic history of the bicycle and cycling in historical eras of ubiquitous bicycle use that have remained relatively invisible in bicycle history It revisits the typical timeline of cycling s decline in the 1950s and 1960s and the renaissance beginning in the 1970s by bringing forth the large national and local variations varying uses and images of the bicycle and different bicycle cultures as well as their historical background and motivations To understand the role possibilities and challenges of the bicycle today it is necessary to know the history that has formed them Therefore The Invisible Bicycle is recommended also to present day practitioners and planners of bicycle
