Mobilizing Place, Placing Mobility Ginette Verstraete, Tim Cresswell, 2002 What role does place have in a world marked by increased mobility on a global scale What strategies are there for representing place in the age of globalization What is the relationship between place and the varied mobilities of migrancy tourism travel and nomadism These are some of the questions that run through the ten essays in this collection The combined effect of these essays is to participate in the contemporary project of subjecting the links between place mobility identity representation and practice to critical interdisciplinary scrutiny Such notions are not the property of particular disciplines In the era of globalization transnationalism and readily acknowledged cultural hybridity these links are more important than ever They are important because of the taken for grantedness of the universal impact of globalization the receding importance of place and the centrality of mobile identities This taken for grantedness masks the ways place continues to be important and ways in which mobility is differentiated by race gender ethnicity nationality and many other social markers This book is a concerted attempt to stop taking for granted these themes of the age Material discussed in the essays include the creation of cultural routes in Europe the video s of Fiona Tan artistic and literary representations of the North African desert the production of indigenous videos in Mexico mobile forms of ethnography the film Existenz Jamaica Kincaid s writing on gardens the video representation of sex tourism and ways of imagining the global Authors include Tim Cresswell Ginette Verstraete Ernst van Alphen Ursula Biemann Laurel C Smith Nick Couldry Isabel Hoving Renee van de Vall Inge E Boer and Kevin Hetherington

Intimate Migrations Deborah A. Boehm, 2012-04-23 In her research with transnational Mexicans Deborah A Boehm has often asked individuals if there were no barriers to your movement between Mexico and the United States where would you choose to live Almost always they desire the freedom to come and go Yet the barriers preventing such movement are many Because of the United States rigid immigration policies Mexican immigrants often find themselves living long distances from family members and unable to easily cross the U S Mexico border Transnational Mexicans experience what Boehm calls intimate migrations flows that both shape and are structured by gendered and familial actions and interactions but are always defined by the presence of the U S state Intimate Migrations is based on over a decade of ethnographic research focusing on Mexican immigrants with ties to a small rural community in the Mexican state of San Luis Potos and several states in the U S West By showing how intimate relations direct migration and by looking at kin and gender relationships through the lens of illegality Boehm sheds new light on the study of gender and kinship as well as understandings of the state and transnational migration

Transformative Sustainable Development Kei Otsuki, 2014-12-05 Recent debates about

sustainable development have shifted their focus from fixing environmental problems in a technocratic and economic way to more fundamental changes in social political processes and relations In this context participation is a genuinely transformative approach to sustainable development yet the process by which participation leads to transformation is not sufficiently understood This book considers how the act of participating in sustainable development projects can bring about social transformation that is considered to be fair and just by the participants and non participants in a broader societal context Drawing on ideas from social theory and applied anthropology the book proposes a reflexivity based framework to analyse participation as a type of social action underpinned by primary experience Development projects have a transformative effect when participants are given the opportunity to reflect on their experience share the reflection with others and open new space for collective deliberation and change The book applies this framework to assess community based participatory projects in the Amazon African slums and rural settlements and disaster stricken areas in Japan It also outlines potential institutions of governance to institutionalize the change by referring to current food governance drawing out lessons with international relevance This book will be of interest to students of sustainable development environmental policy and development studies as well as practitioners and policy makers in these fields Capital, Power, and Inequality in Latin America and the Caribbean Richard L. Harris, Jorge Nef, 2008-01-28 Provides comparative analysis of political economic and social developments in Latin America and the Caribbean The Broken Village Daniel Ross Reichman, 2011 In The Broken Village Daniel R Reichman tells the story of a remote village in Honduras that transformed almost overnight from a sleepy coffee growing community to a hotbed of undocumented migration to and from the United States The small village called here by the pseudonym La Quebrada was once home to a thriving coffee economy Recently it has become dependent on migrants working in distant places like Long Island and South Dakota who live in ways that most Honduran townspeople struggle to comprehend or explain Reichman explores how the new migration economy has upended cultural ideas of success and failure family dynamics and local politics During his time in La Quebrada Reichman focused on three different strategies for social reform a fledgling coffee cooperative that sought to raise farmer incomes and establish principles of fairness and justice through consumer activism religious campaigns for personal morality that were intended to counter the corrosive effects of migration and local discourses about migrant greed that labeled migrants as the cause of social crisis rather than its victims All three phenomena had one common trait They were settings in which people presented moral visions of social welfare in response to a perceived moment of crisis The Broken Village integrates sacred and secular ideas of morality legal and cultural notions of justice to explore how different groups define social progress Handbook of Culture and Migration Jeffrey H. Cohen, Ibrahim Sirkeci, 2021-01-29 Capturing the important place and power role that culture plays in the decision making process of migration this Handbook looks at human movement outside of a vacuum taking into account the impact of family relationships access to resources and security and insecurity at both the points of origin and destination Football and Migration Richard Elliott, John Harris, 2014-09-19 Football is an incredibly powerful case study of globalization and an extremely useful lens through which to study and understand contemporary processes of international migration This is the first book to focus on the increasingly complex series of migratory processes that contour the contemporary game drawing on multi disciplinary approaches from sociology history geography and anthropology to explore migration in football in established emerging and transitional contexts The book examines shifting migration patterns over time and across space and analyses the sociological dynamics that drive and influence those patterns It presents in depth case studies of migration in elite men s football exploring the role of established leagues in Europe and South America as well as important emerging leagues on football s frontier in North America and Asia The final section of the book analyses the movement of groups who have rarely been the focus of migration research before including female professional players elite youth players amateur players and players families drawing on important new research in Ghana England Haiti and the Dominican Republic Few other sports have such a global reach and therefore few other sports are such an important location for cross cultural research and insight across the social sciences This book is engaging reading for any student or scholar with an interest in sport sociology human geography migration international labour flows globalization development or post colonial studies
