Rise Of A Refugee God Hong Kongs Wong Tai Sin:

The Rise of a Refugee God Graeme Lang, Lars Ragvald, 1993-01-01 In this case study Lang describes how plagues war revolutions and industrialization affected the worship of the Chinese god Wong Tai Sin and why after his cult was extinguished within China in the 1960s Wong Tai Sin became hugely successful in Hong Kong Originally a healing god he has now become a generalist and is consulted by anxious urbanites about love careers and emigration Hong Kong Michael Ingham, 2007-06-18 Hong Kong has always been something of an anomaly and an outpost of empire whether British or Chinese Once described as a barren island the former fishing community has been transformed by its own economic miracle into one of Asia's World Cities taking in its stride the territory's 1997 return to Chinese sovereignty Beneath the surface of Hong Kong's clichéd self image as Pearl of the Orient and Shopping Paradise Michael Ingham reveals a city rich in history myth and cultural diversity The Transformation of Yiguan Dao in Taiwan Yunfeng Lu, 2008-02-25 The most influential sect in the Chinese mainland in the 1940s Yiguan Dao was largely destroyed in mainland China in 1953 Yiguan Dao not only survived however but developed into the largest sect in Taiwan despite its suppression by the Kuomintang state In 1987 through relentless efforts the sect finally gained legal status in Taiwan Today Yiguan Dao not only thrives in Chinese societies but has also become a world wide religion which has spread to more than sixty countries This book based on fieldwork conducted in 2002 in Taiwan is the first English language scholarly study exclusively focusing on Yiguan Dao Lu includes a history of Yiguan Dao in mainland China but focuses on the sect's evolution in Taiwan in the past few decades Specifically he probes the operation of Yiguan Dao under suppression in the past twenty years and examines the relationship between Yiguan Dao and its rivals in Taiwan's religious market The Transformation of Yiguan Dao in Taiwan develops the religious economy model by extending it to Chinese societies God Aboveground Eriberto P. Lozada, 2001 This ethnographic study of a Chinese Catholic village reveals how the rapid penetration of transnational processes into the People's Republic of China during the post Mao period has redefined and created new social and cultural structures in rural communities In examining the resurfacing of a Catholic community in a Hakka village in Jiaoling county Guangdong the book shows what it means to be part of a global and modern rural village The Hakka are members of a Chinese diasporic group that in the past few decades have mobilized international campaigns to strengthen ethnic solidarity After surviving campaigns of persecution in the Maoist era Catholic villagers incorporated their village church into the state religious administrative structure while remaining faithful to Catholic traditions They managed this transformation despite a multiplicity of national and transnational processes that might have deterred them the privatization of local sectors of the socialist economy the global movement of people as workers students and tourists and the swift modernization of Chinese production and consumption Through a close examination of life cycle rituals such as weddings baptisms and funerals and community wide events such as the building of a new church and a celebration of Christmas the author shows how Catholic villagers pursued strategies to make their imagined futures a reality For these villagers Chinese Catholicism has defined a deterritorialized community's boundaries while simultaneously connecting them to the rest of the world through an international religious tradition Early Chinese Religion John Lagerwey, Pengzhi Lü, 2009-10-30 After the Warring States treated in Part One of this set there is no more fecund era in Chinese religious and cultural history than the period of division 220-589 AD During it Buddhism conquered China Daoism grew into a mature religion with independent institutions and together with Confucianism these three teachings having each won its share of state recognition and support formed a united front against shamanism While all four religions are covered Buddhism and Daoism receive special attention in a series of parallel chapters on their pantheons rituals sacred geography community organization canon formation impact on literature and recent archaeological discoveries This multi disciplinary approach without ignoring philosophical and theological issues brings into sharp focus the social and historical matrices of Chinese religion Early Chinese Religion, Part Two: The Period of Division (220-589 AD) (2 vols.) John Lagerwey, Pengzhi Lü, 2009-11-23 After the Warring States treated in Part One of this set there is no more fecund era in Chinese religious and cultural history than the period of division 220-589 AD During it Buddhism conquered China Daoism grew into a mature religion with independent institutions and together with Confucianism these three teachings having each won its share of state recognition and support formed a united front against shamanism While all four religions are covered Buddhism and Daoism receive special attention in a series of parallel chapters on their pantheons rituals sacred geography community organization canon formation impact on literature and recent archaeological discoveries This multi disciplinary approach without ignoring philosophical and theological issues brings into sharp focus the social and historical matrices of Chinese religion Building Temples in China Selina Ching Chan, Graeme Lang, 2014-11-27 Much has been written on how temples are constructed or reconstructed for reviving local religious and communal life or for recycling tradition after the market reforms in China The dynamics between the state and society that lie behind the revival of temples and religious practices initiated by the locals have been well analysed However there is a gap in the literature when it comes to understanding religious revivals that were instead led by local governments This book examines the revival of worship of the Chinese Deity Huang Daxian and the building of many new temples to the god in mainland China over the last 20 years It analyses the role of local governments in initiating temple construction projects in China and how development oriented temple building activities in Mainland China reveal the forces of transnational ties capital markets and identities as temples were built with the hope of developing tourism boosting the local economy and enhancing Chinese identities for Hong Kong worshippers and Taiwanese in response to the reunification of Hong Kong to China Including chapters on local religious memory awakening pilgrimage as a form of tourism women temple managers entrepreneurialism and the religious economy and based on extensive fieldwork Chan and Lang have produced a truly interdisciplinary follow up to The Rise of a Refugee God which will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese religion Chinese culture Asian anthropology cultural heritage and

Daoism alike Economic Development, Integration, and Morality in Asia and the Americas Donald C. Wood, 2009-04-09
Explores economic development integration and morality in economic transactions in Asia and the America This title includes chapters that look at underground gambling behavior in China in light of that country s economic boom and retail store expansion and local socioeconomic effects in rural Mexico The Religious Question in Modern China Vincent Goossaert, David A. Palmer, 2011-03-15 Recent events from strife in Tibet and the rapid growth of Christianity in China to the spectacular expansion of Chinese Buddhist organizations around the globe vividly demonstrate that one cannot understand the modern Chinese world without attending closely to the question of religion The Religious Question in Modern China highlights parallels and contrasts between historical events political regimes and cultural movements to explore how religion has challenged and responded to secular Chinese modernity from 1898 to the present Vincent Goossaert and David A Palmer piece together the puzzle of religion in China not by looking separately at different religions in different contexts but by writing a unified story of how religion has shaped and in turn been shaped by modern Chinese society From Chinese medicine and the martial arts to communal temple cults and revivalist redemptive societies the authors demonstrate that from the nineteenth century onward as the Chinese state shifted the religious landscape consistently resurfaced in a bewildering variety of old and new forms The Religious Question in Modern China integrates historical anthropological and sociological perspectives in a comprehensive overview of China s religious history that is certain to become an indispensable reference for specialists and students alike Confucianism and Spiritual Traditions in Modern China and Beyond Fenggang Yang, Joseph Tamney, 2011-11-11 Confucianism is reviving in China and spreading in America This multidisciplinary volume includes philosophical and theological articulations of Confucianism and other spiritual traditions for the modern and globalizing world and empirical studies of and analytical reflections on Confucianism and other traditions in Chinese societies by historians sociologists and anthropologists
