René Laennec 1781-1826 is best known for his invention of the stethoscope one of medicine's most powerful symbols. Histories, novels, and films have cloaked his life in hagiography and legend. Jacalyn Duffin's fascinating new biography relies on a vastly expanded foundation of primary source material including thousands of pages of handwritten patient records, lecture notes, unpublished essays, and letters. She situates Laennec the scientist and teacher within the broader social and intellectual currents of post-Revolutionary France. Her work uncovers a complex character who participated actively in the dramatic changes of his time. Laennec's famous Treatise on Mediate Auscultation was his only published book but two lesser-known works were left in manuscript: an early treatise on pathological anatomy and a later set of lectures on disease. The three parts of Duffin's biography correspond to these books. First she examines Laennec's student research on the emerging science of pathological anatomy, the background for his major achievement. Second she uses his clinical records to trace the discovery and development of mediate auscultation, listening through an instrument or mediator to sounds within the human body. The stethoscope allowed clinicians to see the organic alterations inside their living patients' bodies. Finally she explores the impact of auscultation on diagnostic practice and on concepts of disease. Analyzed here for the first time in their entirety, Laennec's Collège de France lectures reveal his criticism of over-enthusiastic extrapolations of his own method at the expense of the patient's story.
