The Rise of Interactive Governance and Quasi-Markets S.A. Denters, Oscar van Heffen, J. Huisman, P.J. Klok, 2013-06-29 It has taken a long time to make this book. Many initial drafts of the chapters published in this book were presented in November 2000 during a two day conference on Interactive governance towards a post parliamentary democracy held in Enschede, The Netherlands. The Netherlands Institute of Governance (NIG) sponsored the conference. After this conference the organisers discussed the possibility of making a book on the basis of papers presented at this event. In the end it was agreed that such a publication would indeed be worthwhile provided the initial papers were fundamentally revised. Moreover it was agreed that also supplementary chapters should be included in order to strengthen the international comparative perspective. On this basis authors of the conference papers, chapters and envisioned new chapters were invited to re-submit drafts. The completion of the book however was unexpectedly halted by the tragic sudden death of our co editor and dear friend Oscar van Heffen. In his lifetime he was the driving force behind this project. Without his efforts, insightful comments and helpful suggestions, this book in its present form would never have been published. As such we dedicate this volume to his memory, the completion of the book being an honorary debt to our friend and his wife Mirjan.

Governing a Common Sea Marko Joas, Detlef Jahn, Kristine Kern, 2012-05-16 This is a very welcome volume and it will reach a large audience and readership among those involved in these issues from a truly multidisciplinary perspective. In essence a much needed book. Erik Bonsdorff, professor of marine biology at Åbo Akademi University, Finland. This timely volume provides a thorough account of how the highly advanced industrial societies seek to govern and manage the Baltic Sea. The way they proceed and the degree to which they succeed provide valuable lessons for riparian states seeking to avoid tragedies of their commons. Lennart J. Lundqvist, professor of environmental policy and administration, University of Gothenburg, Sweden. How is a natural common pool resource such as a sea which is shared by several countries best governed? The potential for international conflict is immense as each country may have different agendas with regard to issues such as exploitation and environmental protection. This book uses a case study of the Baltic Sea Region to examine this complex problem. The sea itself has been highly vulnerable to pollution and recently the bordering nations have begun to change their mode of cooperation to tackle this issue by establishing several new forums to manage the sea. Administrative and political structures developed in the region are reviewed and shown to provide a model that could be applied to other seas and natural resource systems elsewhere in the world.

Good Governance in Asia Linda Chelan Li, 2016-03-22 The international aid community has advocated governance reforms as a necessary complement to economic aid to developing countries. The resultant Good Governance Agenda has been criticised for its ahistorical bias. The empirical case studies reported in this book further illustrate the limitations by showing the complex logics of governance reforms and their relations with development in the Asian context. The analysis highlights the importance of taking full notice of the Asian reform experiences in the ongoing reflection over the global institutional and development agenda. The message is not to deny the need for governance reforms or the utility of international learning and sharing of experiences. Global development will benefit however from a better understanding of the linkages between governance reforms and the diverse historical conditions they are embedded in both developing or the advanced economies. This book was published as a special issue of Journal of Contemporary Asia. Lessons for the Big Society: Planning, Regeneration and the Politics of Community Participation Denis Dillon, Bryan Fanning, 2016-05-13. This book provides concrete examples of the ways in which shifting academic debates policy and political approaches have impacted on a specific place over the past 30 years. It offers a critical analysis of the history politics and social geography of the high profile London Borough of Haringey in the decades prior to the 2011 Tottenham riots. The Haringey case study acts as a lens through which to explore the evolution of theoretical and policy debates about the relationship between local institutions and the communities they serve. Focusing on the policy areas of planning and regeneration it considers the local implementation and outcome of central government strategies that have sought to achieve such accountability and responsiveness through community participation strategies. It examines how the local authority responded to central government aspirations for greater community involvement in planning in the 1970s and regeneration from the late 1980s onwards before looking in detail at the implementation of New Labour neighbourhood renewal and local governance policy in the borough. In doing so the book provides a longitudinal case study on how various central government community empowerment agendas have played out at a local level. It offers important lessons and indicates how they might work more effectively in future.

Federalism in Asia Harihar Bhattacharyya, 2010-02-25. This book analyzes the successes and failures of various federal measures adopted in India, Pakistan and Malaysia for the political accommodation of diversity. Bhattacharyya then assesses their comparative significance for other countries in Asia. In particular he examines growing tensions between nation and state building in ethnically plural societies, modes of federation building in Asia, persistent ethno nationalist tensions in federations and the relationship between federalism and democracy and federalism and decentralization. Since ethno nationalist conflict remains unresolved in most countries of Asia, this book should be of interest to those seeking long term solutions of problems of order and stability in ethnically diverse countries in Asia.

Njoh,2024-07-30 The book draws from regulation theory to explain urban planning policies and outcomes in Southeast Asia as a function of governance structures and processes A considerable portion of the book is spent re tracing the historical roots of planning dispositives including the totality of institutional entities which together constitute an apparatus of government in South East Asian polities Therefore of essence in the book are the institutional structures and administrative principles that were introduced by colonial authorities and inherited by their post colonial successors in South East Asia The book seeks to demonstrate the role of the policies and commensurate implementation institutional frameworks in accounting for important dynamics in the contemporary urban domain in the region In analyzing the institutional framework for urban planning and governance the book is doing due diligence to a hitherto neglected subject namely governmentality in the discourse on the political economy of urban management in Southeast Asia Thus the book is intended to acknowledge the importance of institutions in determining the success of urban development policies The notion of institutions or governmentality as will be used in the book includes de facto governance structures government and parastatal agencies and the formal rules and regulations they are charged with implementing The book is based on the premise that knowledge of institutions and their functions is critical in explaining phenomena in economic geography This is particularly true in Southeast Asian countries because of the dominant and overarching role of the state or government agencies in the economy In defence of councillors Colin Copus,2015-12-01 By using qualitative research from a number of related projects the book examines the roles functions and responsibilities of councillors and the expectations placed upon them by citizens communities and
