The Making of the Arab Intellectual Dyala Hamzah, 2012 In the wake of the Ottoman Empire s nineteenth century reforms as guilds waned and new professions emerged the scholarly estate underwent social differentiation Some found employment in the state s new institutions as translators teachers and editors whilst others resisted civil servant status Gradually the scholar morphed into the public writer Despite his fledgling status he catered for the public interest all the more so since new professionals such as doctors engineers and lawyers endorsed this latest social role as an integral part of their own self image This dual preoccupation with self definition and all things public is the central concern of this book Focusing on the period after the tax farming scholar took the bow and before the alienated intellectual prevailed on the contemporary Arab cultural scene it situates the making of the Arab intellectual within the dysfunctional space of competing states interests known as the Nahda Located between Empire and Colony the emerging Arab public sphere was a space of over and under regulation hindering accountability and upsetting allegiances The communities that Arab intellectuals imagined including the Pan Islamic Pan Arab and socialist sat astride many a polity and never became contained by post colonial states Examining a range of canonical and less canonical authors this interdisciplinary approach to The Making of the Modern Arab Intellectual will be of interest to students and scholars of the Middle East history political science comparative literature and philosophy
