Making Of The 1944 Education Act:

Making of the 1944 Education Act Michael Barber, 2000-01-01 The 1944 Education Act was a crucial piece of British legislation one of the most important this century It was passed against a background of war and growing popular demand for social reform It provided a framework for the education service which remained largely intact for almost fifty years Since 1988 however with the introduction of a National Curriculum and competition between schools the workings of the Act have been largely dismantled In The Making of the 1944 Education Act Michael Barber presents a lively evaluation of the Act its background passage and effect fifty years after it was introduced He looks briefly at the frustrated attempts at reform between the wars and how the upheaval of World War II created the right conditions for successful legislation The book then follows the passage of reform and quotes liberally from contemporary sources such as the Times Educational Supplement and Hansard to illustrate its narrative It is a fascinating history of educational policy and of British culture and politics towards the end of the war

Educational Reconstruction Gary McCulloch, 2013-09-05 This book presents a clear overview of the debates that surrounded the making of the 1944 Act which affected every aspect of education in this country It gives a detailed account of the tripartite divisions into three types of child that were sanctioned in the reforms of the 1940s At the same time it also emphasises the idea of education as a civic project which underlay the reforms and which was such an important part of their lasting authority The education policies of the past decade and the current attempts to shape a new education settlement need to be interpreted in a long term historical framework and in particular in relation to the aims and problems of the last great cycle of reform in the 1940s This book makes an important contribution to the development of such a framework and the social history of education policy in this country

Register of Educational Research in the United Kingdom, 1992-1995 National Foundation For Educational Research, 1995 This latest volume of the Register of Educational Research in the United Kingdom lists all the major research projects being undertaken in Britain during the latter months of 1992 the whole of 1993 and 1994 and the early months of 1995 Each entry provides names and addresses of the researchers a detailed abstract the source and amount of the grant where applicable the length of the project and details of published material about the research

The TUC and Education Reform, 1926-1970 Dr Clive Griggs, Clive Griggs, 2013-09-05 This book covers a crucial period for the development of state education in Britain the advent of the comprehensive debate before and during the Second World War the War years themselves and the 1944 Education Act the post War Labour Government and Churchill's last government in a time of education expansion From the 1960s the focus shifted to questions of social deprivation and educational opportunities secondary school selection the debate on standards Robbins and higher education and the continuing theme of the dominance of public schools The book is divided into four sections which are then divided into chapters Each chapter takes as its main reference point a key issue within the chronological framework of the book e.g. resistance to secondary education for all politics and textbooks multilateral and technical schools pressure groups and the

1944 Education Act Churchill and the Conservatives Much new light is thrown on the topics by the author's use of new material and he has made a valuable contribution to the politics of education The 1944 Education Act Mandy Balzer, 2012-10-08 Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade 1.7 University of Potsdam Anglistik Amerikanistik course British Culture in the 19th and 20th Century language English abstract In the last decades the educational systems widened steadily Learning opportunities and participation are on the increase Particularly the number of people that remain in the educational system beyond compulsory education rose considerably This expansion continues Following an almost universal taking part in secondary education tertiary education registers a continuous perpetually participation rate OECD 31-32 The responsibility for the education in England lies with the Department for Children Schools and Families DCSF led by the Secretary of State Rt Hon Charles Clarke MP This year's progress report states that parents want the best for their children They want them to be safe happy healthy doing well in a good school with high standards and able to get good qualifications and eventually a good job The world is changing and so are the skills attitudes and aspirations that children and young people need to succeed in a changing global economy DCSF 3 This shows that nowadays education is given a high priority in the English society It has not always been like that The present English educational system is the result of a historical development for centuries The system certainly has features of recent foundation but its most basic aspects persisted directly and visibly from the nineteenth century A key moment in educational reform seemed and still seems to be the Education Act of 1944 It is a very great Act which makes and in fact has made possible as important and substantial advance in public education as this country has ever known Dent 1 This paper shall deliver insight into the reforms of the 1944 Education Act In this regard I would like to enlarge on its roots and aims especially concerning the influence of World War II Furthermore I will introduce the Act itself its strengths and weaknesses and its potential impact on the present English education system There are certainly several more interesting aspects regarding the issue but due to the restricted number of pages I will not be able to go into all of them Christian Modernism in an Age of Totalitarianism Jonas Kurlberg, 2019-07-25 With fascism on the march in Europe and a second World War looming a group of Britain's leading intellectuals including T. S. Eliot Karl Mannheim John Middleton Murry J. H. Oldham and Michael Polanyi gathered together to explore ways of revitalising a culture that seemed to have lost its way The group called themselves the Moot Drawing on previously unpublished archival documents this is the first in depth study of the group's work writings and ideas in the decade of its existence from 1938-1947 Christian Modernism in an Age of Totalitarianism explores the ways in which an important and influential strand of Modernist thought in the interwar years turned back to Christian ideas to offer a blueprint for the revitalisation of European culture In this way the book challenges conceptions of Modernism as a secular movement and sheds new light on the culture of the late Modernist period The Making of Modern English Society from 1850 Janet Roebuck, 2005-08-04 In the second half of the nineteenth century and the first half of the twentieth century a variety of forces emerged which changed society in many profound and subtle ways The Making of Modern English Society from 1850 uses the findings of recent historical and sociological research contemporary literature and a wide range of historical sources to form a clear picture of the main patterns of the social changes which took place in this turbulent period Jane Roebuck shows how in these hundred years the whole fabric of society altered more rapidly and radically than in any preceding century She gives an account of the dramatic change which occurred in all spheres of national life She demonstrates how the drift towards socialism which began in the nineteenth century gathered momentum in the twentieth and how massive social change was on produce of the two world wars In the field of economics the author considers the development of the maturing but still primitive industrial economy of the mid nineteenth century into a modern economy based on mass production and mass consumption She also describes the change in emphasis from desire for world power to concern for domestic prosperity and welfare services

Women's Legal Landmarks Erika Rackley, Rosemary Auchmuty, 2018-12-27 Women's Legal Landmarks commemorates the centenary of women's admission in 1919 to the legal profession in the UK and Ireland by identifying key legal landmarks in women's legal history Over 80 authors write about landmarks that represent a significant achievement or turning point in women's engagement with law and law reform The landmarks cover a wide range of topics including matrimonial property the right to vote prostitution surrogacy and assisted reproduction rape domestic violence FGM equal pay abortion image based sexual abuse and the ordination of women bishops as well as the life stories of women who were the first to undertake key legal roles and positions Together the landmarks offer a scholarly intervention in the recovery of women's lost history and in the development of methodology of feminist legal history as well as a demonstration of women's agency and activism in the achievement of law reform and justice

Educational Reform in Europe Richard R. Verdugo, 2014-10-01 Education is a contested terrain The symmetry of education reform among the seven countries examined in this volume is remarkable There is much commonality in the issues they raise in the competing groups battling over education policy their policy choices and the implementation of such policies Also all seven countries address the same issues equity global competition the performance of their students There are at least six important traits characterizing these battles the context the combatants the issues the process and the policies To begin with history culture and governance regime set the context for education policy and reform Second there is the process of how these battles are waged is compromise an outcome or is it a zero sum contest Third there appear to be four groups of combatants each with its own ideology representing a particular social class in society and their views about education and its uses Conservatives Socialists Neo Liberals and Elites Education is an important and valued resource that each status group tries to control and shape to its own views Fourth there are key issues that drive education reform how education can best flatten a social system how education train students for work and how education socializes students to be functioning citizens In recent years fifth issue has emerged student performance on international standardized tests Not only is a society's international reputation based on their students performance but nations see such performance as an indicator of the quality of their educational system and if it is good enough to secure its economic future Finally there are the policies themselves do they reduce or increase inequality who benefits and how The chapters in this volume clearly point out that education reform is not a homogeneous process as some scholars have conjectured Rather education reform involves heated battles over the control of the educational system because education is seen as a key factor in maintaining a society's vision and social structure

The Public General Acts and General Synod Measures Great Britain,1973 Responsible Parents and Parental Responsibility Rebecca Probert,Stephen Gilmore,Jonathan Herring,2009-05-06 This book examines the idea of parental responsibility in English law and what is expected of a responsible parent The scope of parental responsibility a key concept in family law is undefined and often ambiguous Yet to date more attention has been paid to how individuals acquire parental responsibility than to the question of the rights powers duties and responsibilities they have once they obtain it This book redresses the balance by providing the first sustained examination of the different elements of parental responsibility bringing together leading scholars to comment on specific aspects of its operation The book begins by exploring the conceptual underpinnings of parental responsibility in the context of parents and children's rights The analysis highlights the inherent constraints and limitations of parental responsibility and how its scope has deliberately been curtailed in certain contexts The book then considers what parental responsibility allows and requires in specific areas for example naming a child education religious upbringing medical treatment corporal punishment dealing with any contracts entered into or property owned by the child representing the child in legal proceedings consenting to a child's marriage or civil partnership and the law's response to the death of a child In the final section the idea of the responsible parent is considered in the contexts of child support contact tort and criminal law This title is included in Bloomsbury Professional's Family Law online service Making a Man of Him Christine Heward,2017-06-26 Originally published in 1988 this book analyses the effect of public boarding school it places the particular concerns of a relatively small group within the much wider contexts of education social and gender structure

The Public General Acts ... and the Church Assembly Measures Great Britain,1960 Special Educational Needs Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Education and Skills Committee,2006-07-06 This publication contains a range of oral and written evidence taken by the Committee in relation to its inquiry into special educational needs SEN provision including contributions from Baroness Warnock DfES officials and local authorities Ofsted the Audit Commission the Disability Rights Commission SEN advisors and organisations charities and trade unions The Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator's Handbook Garry Hornby,Gregan Davis,Geoff Taylor,2013-11-05 In September 1994 the Code of Practice on the Identification and Assessment of Special Educational Needs came into force and with it a major increase in the expectations placed on teachers in mainstream schools in particular on the SEN coordinators This handbook discusses the implications for schools and gives practical guidance on how to implement the code effectively Throughout the book provides Further information expanding upon that given in the Code Examples Ideas for dealing with SEN in schools Checklists Proformas for photocopying and direct use in schools The book begins by explaining and expanding on the Code of Practice setting it in the context of recent developments including the Education Reform Act and OFSTED criteria for evaluating policy and provision for children in SEN It then goes on to provide guidelines for implementing the Code of Practice at each of the five stages which it specifies and discusses issues which are raised by this Specific chapters cover Identifying and assessing SEN within the school Liaison with outside specialists Statementing Annual reviews Knowledge needed by classroom teachers of children with SEN Implications and issues at different stages of the education system Parental involvement Future challenges The book will be of particular interest to special needs coordinators but will also be of value to anyone else working with children with SEN including class teachers heads advisers governors educational psychologists and education welfare officers

Having it So Good Peter Hennessy, 2007-05-03 Winner of the Orwell Prize for Political Writing Peter Hennessy's Having it So Good Britain in the Fifties captures Britain in an extraordinary decade emerging from the shadow of war into growing affluence The 1950s was the decade in which Roger Bannister ran the four minute mile Bill Haley released Rock Around the Clock rationing ended and Britain embarked on the traumatic disastrous Suez War In this highly enjoyable original book Peter Hennessy takes his readers into front rooms classrooms cabinet rooms and the new high street coffee bars of Britain to recapture as no previous history has the feel the flavour and the politics of this extraordinary time of change Utterly engaging a treat It breathes exhilaration Libby Purves The Times If the Gods gossip this is how it would sound Philip Ziegler Spectator Books of the Year A particular treat fine wise and meticulously researched Andrew Marr Stands clear of the field as our best narrative history of this decisive decade Peter Clarke Sunday Times A compelling narrative Hennessy's love of the flesh and blood of politics breathes on every page Tim Gardam Observer The late Ben Pimlott once described Hennessy as something of a national institution You can forget the first two of those five words Guardian

Education, Exclusion and Citizenship Carl Parsons, 2002-03-11 Education Exclusion and Citizenship provides a hard hitting account of the realities of exclusion examining the behaviour which typically results in exclusion and asks questions about a society which communally neglects those most in need Permanent exclusions from schools continue to rise As schools compete with neighbouring schools for good pupils managers and heads are choosing to exclude disruptive pupils who might affect school image The book looks at the experience of excluded children the law regulating exclusion the obligations of the LEAs and focuses on prevention and early intervention strategies

Policy and Power in Education Harold Heller, Peter Edwards, 2025-03-03 The fortunes of the education service in Britain have been intimately bound up with the vitality of the local education authorities particularly in the decades following the 1944 Education Act The passing of the 1988 Education Reform Act saw the LEAs in serious perhaps terminal decline First published in 1992 Policy and Power in Education sets out to map the contours of this decline in power It relates these changing fortunes not only to the social and political environment in Britain but also to wider developments in the industrialised world It argues that post colonial decline economic retreat and insular self satisfaction combined with basic structural flaws in the LEA system threaten its very existence in the last decade of the millennium The capacity of the system to reform itself into more responsive modes is left as an open question in the face of ever tightening constraints from the Thatcherite tendency in government The associated challenge to the curriculum is also explored with the suggestion that an over prescribed and specified curriculum will prove to be maladaptive against rapidly changing conditions for the twenty first century New paradigms of learning are described while the broadly irrelevant search for utopias on the left is also sceptically reviewed
