

CAROLE BOYCE DAVIES AND 'MOLARA OGUNDIPE-LESLIE
MOVING BEYOND BOUNDARIES
VOLUME I: INTERNATIONAL DIMENSIONS OF BLACK WOMEN'S WRITING

Moving Beyond Boundaries is a two-volume collection of creative and critical writing by black women writers from very different communities in a wide range of geographical contexts - the United States, Africa, Latin America and Europe.

Inspired by the need to expand our understanding of what constitutes black women's writing, to recognise its diversity, to cast a wider and more ambitious net, Volume 1, International Dimensions of Black Women's Writing, moves beyond the familiar canons of black women's writing to offer a rich sampler of creative writing from women of colour in many parts of the globe.

In narrative stories, reflections, commentaries, writers from diverse cultural sites speak of their existences and experiences. Poets challenge the invisibilities, the erasures, the 'silencing' that until now have muted their distinctive voices.

The result is an extraordinary and inspiring testimony to the international dimensions of black women's writing, and to the determination with which black women from many different cultures have sought to find a voice of their own as they move beyond the particular boundaries of language, race and gender.

The companion volume, Black Women's Diasporas, complements this collection with critical discussions, commentaries and responses by the writers themselves and their critics to the world of black women writers worldwide.

Carole Boyce Davies is Professor of English in the Department of English, African and African-American Studies and Comparative Literature at the State University of New York, Binghamton. She has published widely on women writers and feminist theory in Africa, the Caribbean and African-America.

'Molara Ogundipe-Leslie is a leading women's studies scholar, a literary critic and a poet. She has been actively involved in women's organising in Africa, as a founder member of the Association of African Women in Research and Development and Women in Nigeria, and is the Director of Women's Studies at Indiana University at Fort Wayne.
