Brinig, Nicole Stelle Garnett, 2014-04-11 In the past two decades in the United States more than 1 600 Catholic elementary and secondary schools have closed and more than 4 500 charter schools public schools that are often privately operated and freed from certain regulations have opened many in urban areas With a particular emphasis on Catholic school closures Lost Classroom Lost Community examines the implications of these dramatic shifts in the urban educational landscape More than just educational institutions Catholic schools promote the development of social capital the social networks and mutual trust that form the foundation of safe and cohesive communities Drawing on data from the Project on Human Development in Chicago Neighborhoods and crime reports collected at the police beat or census tract level in Chicago Philadelphia and Los Angeles Margaret F Brinig and Nicole Stelle Garnett demonstrate that the loss of Catholic schools triggers disorder crime and an overall decline in community cohesiveness and suggest that new charter schools fail to fill the gaps left behind This book shows that the closing of Catholic schools harms the very communities they were created to bring together and serve and it will have vital implications for both education and policing policy debates Introduction to Policing Gene L.
