On Human Rights James Griffin, 2008-02-14 What is a human right How can we tell whether a proposed human right really is one How do we establish the content of particular human rights and how do we resolve conflicts between them These are pressing questions for philosophers political theorists jurisprudents international lawyers and activists James Griffin offers answers in his compelling new investigation of the foundations of human rights First On Human Rights traces the idea of a natural right from its origin in the late Middle Ages when the rights were seen as deriving from natural laws through the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries when the original theological background was progressively dropped and natural law emptied of most of its original meaning By the end of the Enlightenment the term human rights droits de l'homme appeared marking the purge of the theological background But the Enlightenment in putting nothing in its place left us with an unsatisfactory incomplete idea of a human right Griffin shows how the language of human rights has become debased There are scarcely any accepted criteria either in the academic or the public sphere for correct use of the term He takes on the task of showing the way towards a determinate concept of human rights based on their relation to the human status that we all share He works from certain paradigm cases such as freedom of expression and freedom of worship to more disputed cases such as welfare rights for instance the idea of a human right to health His goal is a substantive account of human rights an account with enough content to tell us whether proposed rights really are rights Griffin emphasizes the practical as well as theoretical urgency of this goal as the United Nations recognized in 1948 with its Universal Declaration the idea of human rights has considerable power to improve the lot of humanity around the world We can't do without the idea of human rights and we need to get clear about it It is our job now the job of this book to influence and develop the unsettled discourse of human rights so as to complete the incomplete idea

The Right to Die Howard Ball, 2017-01-26 This book provides a comprehensive and contemporary examination of the right to die issues facing society now that vast improvements in public health care and medicine have resulted in people not only living longer but taking much longer to die often in great pain and suffering In 1900 the average age at which people died in America was 47 years of age the primary causes of death were tuberculosis and other respiratory illnesses In the 21st century as a result of better health care and working conditions as well as advances in medical technology we live much longer as of 2016 about 80 years A much larger proportion of Americans now die from chronic diseases that generally appear at an advanced age such as heart disease cancer or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease COPD Should this fundamental change in human lifespan alter how society and government view right to die legislation What are the pros and cons of giving a mentally competent person who is terminally ill and in great pain the right to end his or her life The Right to Die A Reference Handbook provides a complete examination of right to die issues in the United States that dissects the complex arguments for and against a person's liberty to receive a physician's assistance to hasten death It covers the legal aspects and the politics of the right to die controversy analyzes the battles over the right to die in state and federal courts and supplies primary source documents that illustrate the political medical legal religious and ethical landscape of the right to die Additionally the book examines how members of our society typically die has changed in the past 150 years and how the practice of medicine has evolved over that time explains why the right to die is strongly opposed by many religious groups as well as members of the medical profession considers the slippery slope argument against doctor assisted suicide and identifies the reasons that the disabled the poor the elderly and infirm and some members of ethnic racial and religious minority groups typically fear physician assisted death
