

"We started it exactly 17th, as planned. The last notes of the (the Ring to be recorded were the last notes of Wotan. In the central note we stood hands and although I do not remember the last of us not smiling, I am sure that our thoughts went to the same direction, taking us back to an incident to that afternoon in September 1914 when the Rheingold I had played first sounded in the Nibelungen. It seemed like fifteen years ago, the time of the Ring cycle, instead of seven years, but it was all there at last, the the present and future generations to judge. 'Die Ende' Homer said, as he came in, quoting from his Art Two monologue, 'Die Ende'."

I was in the empty hall. The orchestra had gone. Looking up at me by open rings in the dimmed lights I could see one those Rheingolden living here and there pointed by Nibelungen in the opening scene of Rheingold; Flapdud in a big person too, remembering with Wotan; the eighteen seals and the warring children, Sieles and Wodgessen singing the record in Act One of Siegfried, and Father that in his little room at the back. I thought of Christa Ludwig at Wotans in the quote to Brunnhilde with such quiet intensity in Act One of Götterdämmerung. "So wie es, sagt ihre Wirt..."; the sound of Parsifals horns in Act Two, and Fack's black Hagen, and Fack's children when the Blotbrüderkühn motive rings out in the tower, the death of Siegfried, so nobly sung by Wodgessen, and the mysterious singing of Nibelun in the Immolation scene.
 And I thought of Homer, the incomparable Homer, who had just a few moments ago sung 'Ihren Elter' and 'Ihre der Frau, die from an Ich, die Quen' with such nobility and sorrow at such human disaster.

I thought of Bebi, working himself to exhaustion, never losing his patience and yet never making an artistic compromise. I thought of my colleagues, and of all those in London and Zurich who had helped and supported us over the years, who had let us have our back and granted us the money and the conditions not just to make a recording of the Ring, but to do the job properly to the best of our abilities.

Standing in the empty hall at the end of the last Wotans music, with memories swirling all around us, we felt a strange mixture of sadness and pleasure. For better or worse, it was over.
 For seven years it had been a major part of our lives, and it would not come our way again."

 Der Ring des Nibelungen

Ring Resounding:

Ring Resounding John Culshaw, 2012 Nothing in the history of recording approaches Decca's mammoth venture in producing Wagner's Ring complete for the first time. It was eight years in the making and this book tells the story of how it was made and the people who made it, written by the man who as the recording producer was in charge of the whole project. Conducted by the great Georg Solti, Decca's recording has been voted the best recording ever made. All the celebrated Wagner singers of their age take their places in the story, including Birgit Nilsson, Kirsten Flagstad, Hans Hotter, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Gottlob Frick, and Wolfgang Windgassen. The recording was made in Vienna with the Viennese Philharmonic Orchestra, and Culshaw displayed extraordinary dedication to Wagner's musical requirements and to putting into practice his own belief that a stereo recording could create a theatre of the mind. This is the story of how the recording evolved and how it frequently almost came to grief. More than that, it is the story of how a new medium recorded opera in stereo reached fulfilment and how this ground-breaking recording became seen as the highly influential gold standard for the future.

Ring Resounding John Culshaw, 2005 It took eight years to record Wagner's Ring for the first time. The recording producer tells the story of how this grew from a wild imaginative idea into a mammoth project moving through crisis and chaos to triumph. He also talks about the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and the great singers who were involved in the project.

The ^AOxford Handbook of the Operatic Canon Cormac Newark, William Weber, 2020-08-20 The Oxford Handbook of the Operatic Canon examines how opera has become the concrete edifice it was never meant to be by looking at how it evolved from a market entirely driven by novelty to one of the most arthritically canonic art forms still in existence.

Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office USA Patent Office, 1908 Beyond the Score Nicholas Cook, 2013 In Beyond the Score: Music as Performance, author Nicholas Cook supplants the traditional musicological notion of music as writing, asserting instead that it is as performance that music is loved, understood, and consumed. This book reconceives music as an activity through which meaning is generated in real time, as Cook rethinks familiar assumptions and develops new approaches. Focusing primarily but not exclusively on the Western art tradition, Cook explores perspectives that range from close listening to computational analysis, from ethnography to the study of recordings and from the social relations constructed through performance to the performing and listening body. In doing so he reveals not only that the notion of music as text has hampered academic understanding of music but also that it has inhibited performance practices placing them in a textualist straightjacket. Beyond the Score has a strong historical emphasis touching on broad developments in twentieth century performance style and setting them into their larger cultural context. Cook also investigates the relationship between recordings and performance arguing that we do not experience recordings as mere reproductions of a performance but as performances in their own right. Beyond the Score is a comprehensive exploration of new approaches and methods for the study of music as performance and will be an invaluable addition to the libraries of music scholars including musicologists, music theorists and music cognition scholars everywhere.
