Looking For Canterbury:

George Canterbury's Will Mrs. Henry Wood, 1870 The Nationbuilders Brian Easton, 2013-10-01 This is a collection of linked essays on individuals and companies from 1931 to 1984 who contributed in major ways to building the New Zealand nation. It captures the intertwining of the lives of politicians, their advisers, and those who influence them, as well as the ideas and experiences that drove them. While it focuses on economic strategy, the book also looks at the cultural, social, union, business, and foreign policy strands of nationbuilding. An original and provocative book, it is backed by powerful nationalistic emotions and by a deep distaste for the kind of country that has been fashioned in New Zealand since 1984. The Essays Rudolfo Anaya, 2015-11-24 Fifty-two essays exploring identity, literature, immigration, and politics by the American Book Award winner, one of the godfathers of Chicano literature. Best known for his novel Bless Me Ultima, which established him as one of the founders of Chicano literature, Rudolfo Anaya displays his gift for storytelling and deep connection to the land and its history in The Essays. These intimate and contemplative essays explore censorship, immigration, urban development, the Southwest as a region, and personal identity. In Aztlán: A Homeland Without Boundaries, he discusses the reimagining of the modern Chicano community through ancient myth and legend. In The Spirit of Place, he explores the historical connection between literature and the earth. Some essays are autobiographical, some argumentative; all are passionate and a must-read for Anaya fans and readers who crave a view of contemporary America through fresh eyes. City Life Adrian Franklin, 2010-05-31 Cities are more important as cultural entities than their mere function as dormitories and industrial sites. Yet the understanding of what makes a city alive and appealing in cultural terms is still hotly contested. Why are some cities so much more interesting, popular, and successful than others? In this engaging discussion in the text City Life, Adrian Franklin takes the reader on a tour of contemporary western cities, exploring their historical development and arguing that it is the transformative ritual and performative qualities of successful cities that makes a difference. Emphasizing the importance of experience, the book represents the fluid complexity of the city as a living space, an environment, and a posthumanist space of transformation. It will be of interest to all those engaging with the difficulties of urban life in sociology, human geography, tourism, and cultural studies departments. The Last Place You'd Look for a Wallaby Glen Chilton, 2013-04 Glen Chilton returns with another scientific quest: this time to seek out species ill-advisedly introduced into foreign environments. Chilton visits Ireland to witness how rhododendrons, an ornamental plant that escaped a private garden, now threaten to choke out the last of the great oak forests of the United Kingdom. He escapes blood-thirsty midges and a murderous Hungarian architect while visiting a colony of forgotten Scottish wallabies. He finds out how termites brought in on packing crates after WWII contributed to the devastation of Hurricane Katrina in New Orleans. He dives with turtles in North Queensland and dodges both crocodiles and big guns in the eucalyptus forests of Ethiopia. Along the way, Chilton never turns down the opportunity to share a few pints with eccentric locals, often finding himself in the wrong place at the wrong time. Broken Friends

Haneef Shittu,2020-08-19 How many times have you joked about killing someone What if it wasn't a joke anymore but a reality Do you think you would be able to take on the consequences Do you think you would have the mental toughness that it takes Unfortunately for Holly she ends up in that exact predicament but not alone Will the groups different viewpoints help them get through it or will it be their downfall Literature ,1898 Shane Bond - Looking Back Dylan

Cleaver,2010-10-28 A breath of fresh air when he was introduced to Test cricket on the Australian tour of 2001-02 Shane Bond gave New Zealand a rare fast bowling option until his tragic defection to the rebel Indian Cricket League in 2008 a defection forced upon him many believe by the self-serving intransigence of New Zealand's cricketing administrators For a period of six years Bond was one of the most feared bowlers in world cricket The quickest New Zealander to reach 50 one-day international wickets including a national best of 6 for 22 against Australia in the 2003 World Cup his potential was only limited by his susceptibility to injury having suffered crippling stress fractures in his feet and back His fast inswinging yorker commanded the respect of the best batsmen in the game but only when he's fit He took 13 wickets at 9.23 against Zimbabwe in 2005 including 10 for 99 in the second Test at Bulawayo his first ten-wicket haul and in the process became the quickest among all New Zealand bowlers to get to 50 Test wickets achieving the mark in only his 12th match His 5 for 23 in the first game of the Chappell-Hadlee Trophy in February 2007 augured well for Bond's second World Cup He picked up 13 wickets in the tournament and finished as the most economical bowler Signed up with the unsanctioned ICL T20 tournament in 2007 and was controversially precluded from representing New Zealand for 18 months However he severed his ties with the ICL in 2009 and was signed welcomed back to the international fold Made a sensational return to test cricket in 2009 with a match-winning performance against Pakistan in Dunedin Retired from test cricket after that match and from all international cricket after the 2010 T20 World Cup in the West Indies A Search For a Secret G.A. seems to exercise but little power but to have passed them by forgotten in his swift course Everywhere else at his touch all is changed Great cities rise upon the site of fishing villages huge factories with their smoky chimneys grow up and metamorphose quiet towns into busy hives of industry while other cities once prosperous and flourishing sink into insignificance and the passer by as he wanders through their deserted streets wonders and laments over the ruin which has fallen upon them But the towns of which I am speaking and of which there are but few now left in England and these with hardly an exception cathedral towns seem to suffer no such change They neither progress nor fall back If left behind they are not beaten in the race for they have never entered upon it but are content to rest under the shelter of their tall spires and towers to seek for no change and to meet with none but to remain beloved as no other towns are loved by those who have long known them assimilating as it were the very natures of those who dwell in them to their own sober neutral tints In these towns a wanderer who has left them as a boy returning as an old old man will see but little change a house gone here another nearly similar built in its place a greyer tint upon the stone a tree fallen in the old close the ivy climbing a little higher upon the crumbling wall these are all or nearly all the changes which he will see The trains rush past bearing their countless passengers who so rarely think of stopping there that the rooks as they hold their grave conversations in their nests in the old elm trees cease to break off even for a moment at the sound of the distant whistle The very people seem although this is but seeming to have changed as little as the place the same names are over the shop doors the boy who was at school has taken his grand sire s place and stands at his door looking down the quiet street as the old man used to do before him the dogs are asleep in the sunny corners they formerly loved and the same horses seem to be lazily drawing the carts with familiar names upon them into the old market place The wanderer may almost fancy that he has awoke from a long troubled dream It is true that if he enters the little churchyard he will see beneath the dark shadows of the yew trees more gravestones than there were of old but the names are so similar that it is only upon reading them over that he will find that it is true after all and that the friends and playfellows of his childhood the strong merry boys and the fair girls with sunny ringlets sleep peacefully there But it is not full yet and he may hope that when his time shall come there may be some quiet nook found where even as a child he may have fancied that he would like some day to rest Among these cities pre eminent as a type of its class is the town in which I now sit down to recount the past events of my life and of the lives of those most dear to me not egotistically I hope nor thrusting my own story in which indeed there is little enough into view but telling of those I have known and lived with as I have noted the events down in my journal and at times when the things I speak of are related merely on hearsay dropping that dreadful personal pronoun which will get so prominent and telling the story as it was told to me Although not born at Canterbury I look upon it as my native town my city of adoption My earliest remembrances are of the place my childhood and youth were spent there and although I was then for a few years absent it was for that stormy stirring time when life is wrapped up in persons and not in places when the mere scene in which the drama is played out leaves barely an impression upon the mind so all absorbing is the interest in the performers That time over I returned to Canterbury as to my home and hope beneath the shadow of its stately towers to pass tranquilly down the hill of life whose ascent I there made with such eager strong young steps
