International Conventions and Conferences on Marine Safety United States. Coast Guard, 1952 Five Messages from H.P. Blavatsky to the American Theosophists in Convention Assembled, 1888, 1889, 1890, 1891 Helena Petrovna Blavatsky, 1922 Proceedings: Thirty-Seventh Annual Convention of Rotary International , Arguing for a General Framework for Mass Media Scholarship W. James Potter, 2008-12-11

Arguing for a General Framework for Mass Media Scholarship challenges scholars and students to consider and reconsider what we know about media and how we think about media. As such, the book provides an important framework for thinking about knowledge regardless of the discipline. The text provides all of the necessary tools to move the field forward in a way that will increase the rigor of the work being done and augment the overall profile of the discipline.

Dana Mastro, University of Arizona: In this groundbreaking book, W. James Potter presents an innovative perspective to media scholars and students who are frustrated with the fragmentation of research findings across so many journals, books, and fields. Arguing for a General Framework for Mass Media Scholarship presents a clear plan for a more efficient way to build knowledge about the mass media so that it can be better organized and made more useful.

Key Features:

- Conducts an in-depth analysis of mass media scholarship's four major facets of effects: content, audiences, and organizations.
- Presents a significant shift in conceptualizing media effects and ways research can be conducted to generate more useful knowledge about media influence.
- Develops narrative line as a tool to guide analyses about how content decisions are made by producers.
- Synthesizes a system of explanation about why audiences attend to certain messages and how individuals construct meaning from those messages.
- Incorporates an analysis of mass media organizations to provide greater context of understanding messages and their effects on individuals and macro units in society.

The book will play an important role in providing structure to a broad, fragmented discipline. I believe it will, at the very least, create important dialogues about what we now know, understand about areas of mass media, and where we should move as a discipline. This book is clearly a call to arms for mass media scholars to ratchet up the quality of research and what we know to see the interconnections within and among strands of scholarship and to move forward in a more efficient, organized manner.

Professor Potter should be commended for this. Roger Cooper, Ohio University: This book is that call to action that comes forward every few years to wake us up and challenge our ways of doing things not by being radical but via synthesis. I've been waiting for several years for a book like this.

Sahara Byrne, Cornell University: The Coupling Convention : Sex, Text, and Tradition in Black Women's Fiction Ann duCille, Associate Professor of English and African American Studies, Wesleyan University, 1993-10-19

What does the tradition of marriage mean for people who have historically been deprived of its legal status? Generally thought of as a convention of the white middle class, the marriage plot has received little attention from critics of African American literature. In this study, Ann duCille uses texts such as Nella Larsen's Quicksand (1928) and Zora Neale Hurston's Their Eyes Were Watching God (1937) to demonstrate that the African American novel like its European and Anglo American counterparts has developed around the marriage plot what she calls the coupling convention Exploring the relationship between racial ideology and literary and social conventions duCille uses the coupling convention to trace the historical development of the African American women s novel She demonstrates the ways in which black women appropriated this novelistic device as a means of expressing and reclaiming their own identity More than just a study of the marriage tradition in black women s fiction however The Coupling Convention takes up and takes on many different meanings of tradition It challenges the notion of a single black literary tradition or of a single black feminist literary canon grounded in specifically black female language and experience as it explores the ways in which white and black male and female mainstream and marginalized traditions and canons have influenced and cross fertilized each other Much more than a period study The Coupling Convention spans the period from 1853 to 1948 addressing the vital questions of gender subjectivity race and the canon that inform literary study today In this original work duCille offers a new paradigm for reading black women s fiction

The 1949 Geneva Conventions

Andrew Clapham, Paola Gaeta, Marco Sassòli, 2015-10-15 The four Geneva Conventions adopted in 1949 remain the fundamental basis of contemporary international humanitarian law They protect the wounded and sick on the battlefield those wounded sick or shipwrecked at sea prisoners of war and civilians in time of war However since they were adopted warfare has changed considerably In this groundbreaking commentary over sixty international law experts investigate the application of the Geneva Conventions and explain how they should be interpreted today It places the Conventions in the light of the developing obligations imposed by international law on states armed groups and individuals most notably through international human rights law and international criminal law The context in which the Conventions are to be applied and interpreted has changed considerably since they were first written The borderline between international and non international armed conflicts is not as clear cut as was once thought and is complicated further by the use of armed force mandated by the United Nations and the complex mixed and transnational nature of certain non international armed conflicts The influence of other developing branches of international law such as human rights law and refugee law has been considerable The development of international criminal law has breathed new life into multiple provisions of the Geneva Conventions This commentary adopts a thematic approach to provide detailed analysis of each key issue dealt with by the Conventions taking into account both judicial decisions and state practice Cross cutting chapters on issues such as transnational conflicts and the geographical scope of the Conventions also give readers a full understanding of the meaning of the Geneva Conventions in their contemporary context Prepared under the auspices of the Geneva Academy of International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights this commentary on four of the most important treaties in international law is unmissable for anyone working in or studying situations of armed conflicts

Political Communication with Digital Trace Data Andreas Jungherr, 2015-06-12 This book offers a framework for the analysis of political communication in election campaigns based on digital trace data that documents political behavior interests and opinions The author investigates the data generating processes leading users to interact with digital services in politically relevant contexts These interactions produce digital traces which in turn can be analyzed to draw inferences on political events or the phenomena that give rise to them Various factors mediate the image of political reality emerging from digital trace data such as the users of digital services political interests attitudes or attention to politics In order to arrive at valid inferences about the political reality on the basis of digital trace data these mediating factors have to be accounted for The author presents this interpretative framework in a detailed analysis of Twitter messages referring to politics in the context of the 2009 federal elections in Germany This book will appeal to scholars interested in the field of political communication as well as practitioners active in the political arena Proceedings: Twenty-Sixth Annual Convention of Rotary International ,
