Jaakkola, 2019-01-03 Information modeling and knowledge bases have become essential subjects in the last three decades not only in academic communities related to information systems and computer science but also in the areas of business where information technology is applied This book presents the proceedings of the 28th International Conference on Information Modelling and Knowledge Bases EJC2018 held in Riga Latvia from 4 8 June 2018 The aim of the conference was to bring together experts with a common interest in the understanding and solving of problems on information modelling and knowledge bases as well as those from different areas of computer science and other disciplines who apply the results of research to practice The 39 accepted papers collected here cover a variety of topics including conceptual modeling knowledge and information modeling and discovery linguistic modeling cross cultural communication and social computing multimedia data modeling and systems and environmental modeling and engineering The book will be of interest to researchers and practitioners alike and to anyone wanting a better understanding of current advances in information technology National Union Catalog, 1982 , 1983 , The Publishers' Trade List Annual , 1985 Library of Congress Catalogs Library of Congress, 1982 National Union Catalog , 1983 Includes entries for maps and atlases Information Control Problems in Manufacturing 2004 (2-volume Set) Peter Kopacek, Gerard Morel, Carlos Eduardo Pereira, 2005-08-12 Information Modelling and Knowledge Bases XXI Tatjana Welzer Družovec, Hannu Jaakkola, Yasushi Kiyoki, Takehiro Tokuda, Naofumi Yoshida, 2010 Information modelling and knowledge bases have become crucially important subjects in the last few decades They continue to be increasingly relevant not only in academic communities but in every area of commerce and society where information technology The Evolution of Rhythm Cognition: Timing in Music and Speech Andrea Ravignani, Henkjan Honing, Sonja A. Kotz, 2018-07-24 Human speech and music share a number of similarities and differences One of the closest similarities is their temporal nature as both i develop over time ii form sequences of temporal intervals possibly differing in duration and acoustical marking by different spectral properties which are perceived as a rhythm and iii generate metrical expectations Human brains are particularly efficient in perceiving producing and processing fine rhythmic information in music and speech However a number of critical questions remain to be answered Where does this human sensitivity for rhythm arise How did rhythm cognition develop in human evolution How did environmental rhythms affect the evolution of brain rhythms Which rhythm specific neural circuits are shared between speech and music or even with other domains Evolutionary processes long time scales often prevent direct observation understanding the psychology of rhythm and its evolution requires a close fitting integration of different perspectives First empirical observations of music and speech in the field are contrasted and generate testable hypotheses Experiments exploring linguistic and musical rhythm are performed across sensory modalities ages and animal species to address questions about domain specificity development and an evolutionary path of rhythm Finally experimental insights are integrated via synthetic modeling generating testable predictions about brain oscillations underlying rhythm cognition and its evolution Our understanding of the cognitive neurobiological and evolutionary bases of rhythm is rapidly increasing However researchers in different fields often work on parallel potentially converging strands with little mutual awareness This research topic builds a bridge across several disciplines focusing on the cognitive neuroscience of rhythm as an evolutionary process It includes contributions encompassing although not limited to 1 developmental and comparative studies of rhythm e g critical acquisition periods innateness 2 evidence of rhythmic behavior in other species both spontaneous and in controlled experiments 3 comparisons of rhythm processing in music and speech e g behavioral experiments systems neuroscience perspectives on music speech networks 4 evidence on rhythm processing across modalities and domains 5 studies on rhythm in interaction and context social affective etc 6 mathematical and computational e g connectionist symbolic models of rhythmicity as an evolved behavior
