History: Towards a Global Perspective Anders Pettersson, Gunilla Lindberg-Wada, Margareta Petersson, Stefan Helgesson, 2011-12-22 Literary History Towards a Global Perspective is a research project funded by the Swedish Research Council Vetenskapsr det Initiated in 1996 and launched in 1999 it aims at finding suitable methods and approaches for studying and analysing literature globally emphasizing the comparative and intercultural aspect Even though we nowadays have fast and easy access to any kind of information on literature and literary history we encounter more than ever the difficulty of finding a credible overall perspective on world literary history Until today literary cultures and traditions have usually been studied separately each field using its own principles and methods Even the conceptual basis itself varies from section to section and the genre concepts employed are not mutually compatible As a consequence it is very difficult if not impossible for the interested layperson as well as for the professional student to gain a clear and fair perspective both on the literary traditions of other peoples and on one s own traditions The project can be considered as a contribution to gradually removing this problem and helping to gain a better understanding of literature and literary history by means of a concerted empirical research and deeper conceptual reflection The contributions to the four volumes are written in English by specialists from a large number of disciplines primarily from the fields of comparative literature Oriental studies and African studies in Sweden All of the literary texts discussed in the articles are in the original language Each one of the four volumes is devoted to a special research topic English Journal ,1970 Literary Research and the British Renaissance and Early Modern Period Jennifer Bowers, Peggy Keeran, 2010-04-13 Recognizing that every literary era presents scholars with particular challenges this volume covers the best practices and describes important reference resources both print and electronic that can be used in conducting literary research of the British Renaissance and Early Modern period Although the primary emphasis is on literature produced in England the guide also covers literature from Scotland Wales and Ireland This book addresses specific research characteristics integral to studying the period including a more inclusive canon and the predominance of Shakespeare a dual environment of print and manuscript production the challenges of reading early modern handwriting a lack of reviewing media the role of translations and researching non standardized genres among others Central to this volume and to literary research of the era are the equally valid approaches to studying this literature through the more traditional Renaissance lens or through the varying theoretical approaches falling under the rubric early modern Bowers and Keeran explore primary and secondary research resources of this era including general literary research guides union library catalogs print and online bibliographies scholarly journals manuscripts and archives microfilm and digitization projects 17th century periodicals contemporary reception translations and lexicons genres and electronic texts journals and Web resources A final chapter entitled Researching a Thorny Problem demonstrates how many of the research tools and strategies presented in the volume can be employed to explore a question that perhaps has no definitive answer Each chapter addresses how research methods and tools are best used to extract relevant information and compare and evaluate sources The strengths and weaknesses of core and specialized electronic and print research tools and standard search techniques are also examined making this book an invaluable guide to any scholar of the Renaissance and early modern era The Modern Jewish Experience Jack Wertheimer,1993 This essential resource offers guidance for educators to expand the teaching repertoire on a range of issues in modern Jewish history culture religion and Society University of Michigan Official Publication University of Michigan,1994 Each number is the catalogue of a specific school or college of the University The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature ,1892 Resources in Education ,1996-07 Joyce Studies Annual 2012 Philip T. relationships among the period's social, political and literary transformations Religious Perspectives in Modern Muslim and Jewish Literatures Glenda Abramson, Hilary Kilpatrick, 2006 This book brings together fascinating discussions of the way in which Muslim and Jewish beliefs and practices are represented in modern literary texts of poetry, fiction and drama. The chapters collected here consider elements of the expression of Judaism and Islam in modern literature. Key topics such as religious ideas and teachings, aspects of mysticism, the tenets of religion, uses made of sacred texts, religion and popular culture and reflections of religious controversies are covered. While there is an embodied comparative element to the chapters, the essays are not confined by comparisons and cover a wide range of the literary expression of religious issues. With contributions from a group of international scholars, all of whom are experts in the field and each of whom has brought a particular perspective to the topic, this book is a significant contribution to and will stimulate further research on the various literatures treated. Reflection on comparative work on these two cultural traditions and new interest in literary expressions of religion and religiousness in general.

Voices and Books in the English Renaissance Jennifer Richards, 2019-10-24 Voices and Books in the English Renaissance offers a new history of reading that focuses on the oral reader and the voice or performance-aware silent reader rather than the historical reader who is invariably male, silent and alone. It recovers the vocality of education for boys and girls in Renaissance England and the importance of training in pronunciation delivery for oral/aural literary culture. It offers the first attempt to recover the voice and tones of voice especially from textual sources. It explores what happens when we bring voice to text, how vocal tone realizes or changes textual meaning and how the literary writers of the past tried to represent their own and others' voices as well as manage and exploit their readers' voices. The volume offers fresh readings of key Tudor authors who anticipated oral readers including Anne Askew, William Baldwin and Thomas Nashe. It rethinks what a printed book can be by searching the printed page for vocal cues and exploring the neglected role of the voice in the printing process. Renaissance printed books have often been misheard and a preoccupation with their materiality has led to a focus on them as objects. However, Renaissance printed books are alive with possible voices but we will not understand this while we focus on the silent reader.

Absolute Clauses in English from the Systemic Functional Perspective Qingshun He, Bingjun Yang, 2015-02-26 This book focuses on the structural diversity, semantic variability, case choice, stylistic characteristics and diachronic distribution of English absolute clauses. The syntactic roles assumed by absolute clauses in the traditional sense can be categorized into clausal adjuncts, attendant circumstances and appositives. These three types of function correspond to the three hypotactic expansions in the relation system of clause complexes in Systemic Functional Linguistics, i.e. elaboration, extension and enhancement. This research therefore redefines absolute clauses in the framework of SFL and proposes four syntactic types of absolute clauses: absolute paratactic clauses, elaboration absolute hypotactic clauses, extension and enhancement absolute projected clauses fact and act and absolute embedded clauses subject Based on the Brown family corpora BNC and COHA this research finds that different function types of absolute clauses differ in terms of their stylistic and diachronic distributions and both nominative and accusative cases are acceptable
