 Form and Transformation in Modern Chinese Poetry and Poetics Brian Skerratt, 2013 Hu Shi began the modern Chinese New Poetry movement by calling for the liberation of poetic forms but what constitutes form and how best to approach its liberation have remained difficult issues as the apparent material objective reality of literary form is shown to be deeply embedded both culturally and historically This dissertation presents five movements of the dialectic between form and history each illustrated by case studies drawn from the theory and practice of modern Chinese poetry first the highly political and self contradictory demand for linguistic transparency second the discourse surrounding poetic obscurity and alternative approaches to the question of meaning third a theory of poetry based on its musicality and a reading practice that emphasizes sameness over difference four poetry's status as untranslatable as against Chinese poetry's reputation as already translated and fifth the implications of an iconic view of poetic language By reading a selection of poets and schools through the lens of their approaches to form I allow the radical difference within the tradition to eclipse the more familiar contrast of modern Chinese poetry with its foreign and pre modern others My dissertation represents a preliminary step towards a historically informed formalism in the study of modern Chinese literature
