The Social Origins of Modern Science P. Zilsel, 2013-03-07 Edgar Zilsel 1891 1944 lived through the best of times and worst of times through the renewal of scientific optimism and humane politics and through the massive social collapse into idolatrous barbarism With it all and with his personal and family crises in Vienna and later in America Zilsel was I believe a th heroic indeed a model scholar of the first half of the 20 century He was widely admired as a teacher at high schools in workers education in research tutoring and seminars He was an original investigator on matters of the methodology of science and of the history of the sciences He was a social and political analyst as a critical Marxist of the turmoil of Vienna in the 20s Above all he achieved so much as a sociological historian who undertook re search on two central facts of the early modern world recognition of the cre ative individual and the ideal of genius and the conditions and realities of the coming of science to European civilization

Know Thyself Thomas O. Buford,2011-01-01 Know Thyself An Essay in Social Personalism proposes that social Personalism can best provide for self knowledge In the West self knowledge has been sought within the framework of two dominant intellectual traditions order and the emerging self On the one hand ancient and medieval philosophers living in an orderly hierarchical society governed by honor and shame and bolstered by the metaphysics of being and rationalism believed persons gain self knowledge through uniting with the ground of their being once united they would understand what they are what they are to be and what they are to do On the other hand Renaissance and modern thinkers such as Pico della Mirandola Copernicus Descartes Locke and Kant shattered the great achievement of the high middle ages and bequeathed to posterity an emerging self in a splintered world Continuing their search for self knowledge the moderns found themselves faced with the dualism of the emerging self of the Renaissance and the natural world as understood by modern scientists New problems spun out of this dualism including the mind body problem the other minds problem free will and determinism the nature and possibility of social relationships values moral norms and their relationship to the natural and social worlds and the relationships between science and religion Finding self knowledge among these splinters without a guiding orientation has proven difficult Even though luminaries such as Spinoza Berkeley and Hegel attempted to bring order to the sundered elements their attempts proved unsatisfactory We contend that neither order nor the emerging self can adequately provide for self knowledge Since those culturally embodied master narratives lead us to an impasse we turn to social Personalism Self knowledge developed in this book shows how persons in relation to the Personal learn who they are what they are to become and what they must do to achieve that goal It also shows that the achievement of self knowledge is supported by a natural social and cultural environment rooted in trust In this humane and timely discussion Thomas O Buford offers a personalist understanding of self knowledge that avoids the impersonalisms that erode the dignity of persons and their moral life which characterize modern life

Beyond the Modern University Marcus P. Ford,2002-11-30 The modern university which has its origins in 18th and 19th century Germany is currently at war within itself It seeks to portray itself on the one hand as an engine of economic development and on the other hand as existing for the sake of disinterested scholarly reflection and as a repository for human culture The author outlines an entirely different conception of what the university must become if it is to be a force for good in the world The author contends that the modern university actively participates in the breakdown of human communities and the destruction of the natural world He identifies the university's commitments to academic disciplines philosophical materialism and economism the modern faith that infinite economic growth is both possible and desirable as the roots of its negative impact and calls for changes that would make the university a powerful agent for good in the world

Theosis Michael Paul Gama, 2017-02-20 Evangelicalism is reaching an inflection point The exodus of millennials from Evangelical churches and the growth of those self-identifying as Nones as in None of the Above for their church affiliation is concerning for the movement's future Evangelical leaders offer mixed responses to this challenge from circling the wagons to an enthusiastic Everything must change posture Theosis takes a different approach Seeking to understand Evangelicalism and its origins this book suggests that Evangelicalism is best understood as the sibling of western Enlightenment Modernity which served it well until the modern cultural ethos began to shift dramatically toward postmodernity In this shift young Evangelicals principally postmoderns themselves are abandoning their father's Evangelicalism and its perceived linearity hyper-rationalism either or exclusivity and faith expression too often perceived as stripped of mystery and wonder Theosis proposes that to move forward Evangelicalism must go back to the future to re-engage with the patristic understanding of salvation as theosis deification or union with God This radical return and broadening of the doctrine of salvation has begun to gain traction in Western Christendom slowly being considered as it has always in the Christian East as mere Christianity

Introduction to Philosophy Oswald Külpe, 2018-08-06 First published in 1927 this translation of Külpe's Einleitung in die Philosophie 1895 covered psychology logic ethics esthetics and general philosophy The author adopted a uniform approach of positivity interest and impartiality aiming his work at a wider public than students of philosophy The volume was intended as an elementary but complete guide to philosophy past and present and included facts and arguments previously confined to philosophical encyclopaedias

Milk, Modernity and the Making of the Human Richie Nimmo, 2010-02-25 This book undertakes a critique of the pervasive notion that human beings are separate from and elevated above the nonhuman world and explores its role in the constitution of modernity The book presents a socio-material analysis of the British milk industry in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries It traces the dramatic development of the milk trade from a cottage industry into a modernised and integrated system of production and distribution examining the social economic and political factors underpinning this transformation and also highlighting the important roles played by various nonhumans such as microbes refrigeration technologies diseases and even cows themselves Milk as a substance posed deep social and material problems for modernity being hard to transport and keep fresh as well as a highly fertile environment for the growth of bacteria and the transmission of diseases such as tuberculosis from cows to humans Milk Modernity and the Making of the Human demonstrates how the resulting insecurities and dilemmas posed a threat to the nature culture divide as milk consumption grew along with urbanization and had therefore to be managed by emergent forms of scientific and sanitary knowledge and expertise Milk Modernity and the Making of the Human is an ideal volume for any researcher interested in the hybrid socio material economic and political factors underpinning the transformation of the milk industry

Theological Anthropology: A Guide for the Perplexed Marc Cortez, 2010-01-21 What does it mean to be human and to be made in the image of God What does it mean to be a person What constitutes a human person What does it mean to affirm that humans are free beings And what is gender Marc Cortez guides the reader through the most challenging issues that face anyone attempting to deal with the subject of theological anthropology Consequently it addresses complexities surrounding such questions as Each chapter explains first both why the question under consideration is important for theological anthropology and why it is also a contentious issue within the field After this each chapter surveys and concisely explains the main options that have been generated for resolving that particular question Finally the author presents to the reader one way of working through the complexity These closing sections are presented as case studies in how to work through the problems and arrive at a conclusion than as definitive answers Nonetheless they offer a convincing way of answering the questions raised by each chapter

Descartes and the Enlightenment Peter A. Schouls, 1989 Peter Schouls examines the role played by the concepts of freedom mastery and progress in Descartes writings arguing that these ideas express a vital and fundamental feature of Descartes thought These theories also occupy a central position in the thought of the Enlightenment Since the more contentious claim is that they function centrally in Descartes works Schouls presents a careful and detailed examination of the conjunction and use of these ideas in Descartes writings This examination warrants the conclusion that they play the same role in Descartes works as they do in writings typical of the Enlightenment Mothership Connections Theodore Walker Jr., 2012-02-01 Bringing a black Atlantic approach to constructive postmodern efforts to understand and transcend modern worldviews and modern world orders Mothership Connections draws upon the work of scholars in the tradition of W E B Du Bois Charles H Long Alfred North Whitehead and Charles Hartshorne The author shows that connections to the originating influences of transatlantic slavery and black Atlantic experiences are essential to any adequate account of modernity and postmodernity He also argues that metaphysics is essential to theology and moral theory synthesizing neoclassical metaphysics and black theology to develop a black Atlantic account of metaphysical aspects of struggle power and ethical deliberation
