Modern European Intellectual History Reappraisals And New Perspectives:

Modern European Intellectual History Dominick LaCapra, Steven L. Kaplan, 1982 Modern European intellectual History. Reappraisals and new perspectives. Ed. by Dominick LaCapra and Steven L. Kaplan. (1. publ.) Steven L. Kaplan, Dominick LaCapra, 1982 Modern European Intellectual History William James Bouwsma, 1984 Rethinking Modern European Intellectual History Darrin M. McMahon, Samuel Moyn, 2014-03

Modern European intellectual history is thriving as never before. It has recovered from an era in which other trends like social and cultural history threatened to marginalize it. But in spite of enjoying a contemporary renaissance, the field has lost touch with the tradition of debating why and how to study ideas and thus lacks both a well articulated set of purposes and a range of arguments for exactly what it means to pursue those purposes. This volume revives that tradition. Recalling past attempts to showcase the diversity and differentiation of modern European intellectual history, this volume also documents how much has changed in recent decades. Some authors are much readier to defend a history of ideas practiced over the long term, once the defining sin of the field. Others go so far as to insist on how ideas are always open to reappropriation and reevaluation beyond their original contexts, suggesting that it is an error to reduce the ideas to those contexts. Others still argue that under threat from trends like social history, intellectual historians have forsaken any attempt to resolve for themselves how ideas are socially embodied. The volume also registers old and new trends in history that have affected the study of ideas, including the history of science, the history of academic disciplines, the history of psychology and self, international and global history, and women's and gender history.

Egypt, Islam, and the Arabs Israel Gershoni, James P. Jankowski, 1987-01-29

Throughout the 20th century, Egyptian nationalism has alternately revolved around three primary axes: a local Egyptian territorial nationalism, a sense of Arab ethnic/linguistic nationalism, and an identification with the wider Muslim community. This detailed study is devoted to the first major phase in the perennial debate over nationalism in modern Egypt: the territorial nationalism dominant in Egypt in the early 20th century. The first section of the book examines the effects of World War I and its aftermath, which temporarily gave rise to an exclusively Egyptianist national orientation in Egypt. Subsequent sections consider the intellectual and political dimensions of Egyptian interwar years.

Egypt, Islam, and the Arabs is the first volume in a new Oxford series, Studies in Middle Eastern History. The General Editors of the series are Bernard Lewis of Princeton University, Itamar Rabinovich of Tel Aviv University, and Roger M. Savory of the University of Toronto.

Deconstructing History Alun Munslow, 2006-04-18

In Deconstructing History, Alun Munslow examines history in the postmodern age. He provides an introduction to the debates and issues of postmodernist history. He also surveys the latest research into the relationship between the past, history, and historical practice, as well as forwarding his own challenging theories. The book discusses issues of both empiricist and deconstruction positions and considers the arguments of major proponents of both stances and includes an examination of the character of historical evidence, exploration of the role of historians, discussion of the failure of traditional historical methods chapters on Hayden White and Michel Foucault an evaluation of the importance of historical narrative an up to date comprehensive bibliography an extensive and helpful glossary of difficult key terms Deconstructing History maps the philosophical field outlines the controversies involved and assesses the merits of the deconstructionist position He argues that instead of beginning with the past history begin with its representation by historians Rethinking Intellectual History Dominick LaCapra,1983 Dominick LaCapra calls for a new view of intellectual history one that will revitalize the importance of reading and interpreting significant texts In ten essays he reformulates the problem of the relation between the great texts of the Western tradition and their contexts Seeking to refine context into a concept useful to historical research LaCapra urges intellectual historians to learn from lessons and developments in contemporary literary criticism and philosophy fields that have undertaken a radical reassessment of the reading of texts What is Intellectual History? Richard Whatmore,2016-05-18 What is intellectual history Those who practice intellectual history have described themselves as eavesdroppers upon the conversations of the past explorers of alien ideological worlds and translators between historic societies and our own while their critics have often derided them as narrow minded studying the ideas of dead white men Some consider the discipline to be among the most important in the humanities and social sciences because it facilitates a better understanding of contemporary ideological programmes and facilitates their rational evaluation In this engaging and refreshing introduction to the field Richard Whatmore begins by examining the historical development of intellectual history before dissecting its various methodological debates He presents various alternative ways in which we should think about intellectual history as well as presenting his own very clear definition of the field Drawing on a wide range of historical examples Whatmore shows how ideas philosophical political religious scientific artistic originated in their historical context and how they were both shaped by and helped to shape the societies in which they originated He ends by casting a critical eye over the current state of intellectual history and a brief discussion of how it might develop in the future What is Intellectual History will become an essential textbook for scholars and students of intellectual history philosophy politics and the humanities The Routledge Handbook of the History and Sociology of Ideas Stefanos Geroulanos,Gisèle Sapiro,2023-09-26 The Routledge Handbook of the History and Sociology of Ideas establishes a new and comprehensive way of working in the history and sociology of ideas in order to obviate several longstanding gaps that have prevented a fruitful interdisciplinary and international dialogues Pushing global intellectual history forward it uses methodological innovations in the history of concepts gender history imperial history and history of normativity many of which have emerged out of intellectual history in recent years and it especially foregrounds the role of field theory for delimiting objects of study but also in studying transnational history and migration of persons and ideas The chapters also explore how intellectual history crosses the study of particular domains law politics economy science life sciences social and human sciences book history literature and emotions Roots of Rabbinic Judaism Boccaccini,2002 In a bold challenge to the long held scholarly notion that Rabbinic Judaism already was an established presence during the Second Temple period Boccaccini argues that Rabbinic Judaism was a daring reform movement that developed following the destruction of the Jerusalem temple and took shape in the first centuries of the common era
