in their reactional struggles against the dominance of commercialism and naturalism. From the historical and aesthetic perspectives of traditional Asian theatres it approaches this intercultural phenomenon as a Euro centred process of displacement of the aesthetically and culturally differentiated Asian theatrical traditions and of their historical differences and identities. Looking into the displaced and distorted mirror of Asian theatre the founding fathers of modern Western theatre saw in their imagination of the ghostly Other nothing but a self reflection or more precisely a self projection and emplacement of their competing ideas and theories preconceived for the construction and the future development of modern Western theatre.

The World, the Text, and the Indian Scott Richard Lyons, 2017-03-27 Since the rise of the Native American Renaissance in literature and culture during the American civil rights period a rich critical discourse has been developed to provide a range of interpretive frameworks for the study, recovery and teaching of Native American literary and cultural production. For the past few decades the dominant framework has been nationalism, a critical perspective placing emphasis on specific tribal nations and nationalist concepts. While this nationalist intervention has produced important insights and questions regarding Native American literature, culture and politics it has not always attended to the important fact that Native texts and writers have also always been globalized. The World, the Text, and the Indian breaks from this framework by examining Native American literature not for its tribal national significance but rather its connections to global, transnational and cosmopolitan forces. Essays by leading scholars in the field assume that Native American literary and cultural production is global in character even claims to sovereignty and self determination are made in global contexts and influenced by global forces. Spanning from the nineteenth century to the present day these analyses of theories, texts and methods from trans indigenous to cosmopolitan, George Copway to Sherman Alexie and indigenous feminism to book history interrogate the dialects of global indigeneity and settler colonialism in literary and visual culture.

Italy in the German Literary Imagination Gretchen L. Hachmeister, 2002 The German fascination with Italy as seen in Goethe's Italian Journey and in a number of literary reactions to it. Italy has long exerted a particular fascination on the Germans and this has been reflected in German literature most prominently in Goethe's Italienische Reise but also by numerous other writers who have returned to the topic. This book is concerned with two inextricably linked images: those of the German traveler in Italy and of Italy in German literature in the first third of the 19th century. Goethe's publication of his account nearly three decades after his actual journey was in some measure a vehicle to resist the challenge of a new generation of writers who in turn would confront what they found to be a questionable if not altogether false representation. Hachmeister emphasizes the consequences of the disparity between the reality of Goethe's journey and his depiction of it, taking into consideration also his occasional discomfort with Italy's classical past. She shows how the German predilection for Italy is unique in the larger European cultural context of the Grand Tour. Before moving on to chapters that contain readings of Italienische Reise and Goethe's Römische Elegien, individual chapters follow on Eichendorff's Aus dem Leben eines Taugenichts, Platen's Sonette aus Venedig and Heine's three Italian Reisebilder each of which is to some degree a reaction to Goethe's work. These chapters investigate how the individual's reaction to Italy reflects his view of Germany and the author's role in early 19th century German society. The conclusion offers a short glance at the continued evolution of the German fascination with Italy in the mid and late nineteenth century. Gretchen Hachmeister received her Ph.D. in German literature from Yale University. Modern Vintage Homes & Leisure Lives Samantha Holland, 2017-11-14. This book explores the meanings and practices of vintage lives. It focuses on the non-mainstream subculture of vintage clothes and lifestyle specifically that of the 1940s, 1950s and 1960s and asks how those engaged in the culture place themselves within the gendered and classed contexts of these eras. As a result, it also identifies the tensions involved in these identities connected to a past that offered little gain for women and narrow gender roles for both women and men. Modern Vintage Homes & Leisure Lives is based on original empirical international data about a group of people who wear vintage clothing all of the time and whose homes are styled entirely or almost entirely vintage. It aims to understand the meanings of vintage for them through their daily practices and accrued knowledge. Through interviews and direct observations of vintage events, it also explores questions about the acquisition, display and curation of vintage clothes, homes and objects about glamour and wardrobes about the history of second-hand markets and emotional durability and ideas about ghosts, hauntings and spectral remains. It will be of particular interest to students and academics of gender and women's studies, fashion and design, fashion history, cultural studies, the body and embodiment.

Women and Photography in Apartheid South Africa Marie Meyerding, 2025-04-29. Tracing the lives and works of five women in four case studies, author Marie Meyerding examines the representation of women in the field of photography in South Africa in the second half of the twentieth century. All of them are critically understudied with no existing scholarship dedicated exclusively to their photographic contributions. Focusing on the representation of women on two different levels as agents behind the camera and as subjects in photographs, it showcases women photographers portraying their female contemporaries and analyses to what extent they adhered to or subverted common forms of gender representation. In recuperating their forgotten archives, the book argues that none of these women are marginal figures but rather that each of them played a leading role in the field of photography in their own time. The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history, history of photography, gender studies, intersectionality and African studies.
