Modern Canadian Childrens:

Depicting Canada's Children Loren Lerner, 2011-04-07 Depicting Canada's Children is a critical analysis of the visual representation of Canadian children from the seventeenth century to the present Recognizing the importance of methodological diversity these essays discuss understandings of children and childhood derived from depictions across a wide range of media and contexts But rather than simply examine images in formal settings the authors take into account the components of the images and the role of image making in everyday life The contributors provide a close study of the evolution of the figure of the child and shed light on the defining role children have played in the history of Canada and our assumptions about them Rather than offer comprehensive historical coverage this collection is a catalyst for further study through case studies that endorse innovative scholarship This book will be of interest to scholars in art history Canadian history visual culture Canadian studies and the history of children

Next-Generation Memory and Ukrainian Canadian Children's Historical Fiction Mateusz Świetlicki, 2023-03-24 This is the first book monograph devoted to Anglophone Ukrainian Canadian children's historical fiction published between 1991 and 2021 It consists of five chapters offering cross sectional and interdisciplinary readings of 41 books novels novellas picturebooks short stories and a graphic novel The first three chapters focus on texts about the complex process of becoming Ukrainian Canadian showcasing the experiences of the first two waves of Ukrainian immigration to Canada including encounters with Indigenous Peoples and the First World War Internment The last two chapters are devoted to the significance of the cultural memory of the Holodomor the Great Famine of 1932 1933 and the Second World War for Ukrainian Canadians All the chapters demonstrate the entanglements of Ukrainian and Canadian history and point to the role Anglophone children's literature can play in preventing the symbolical seeds of memory from withering This volume argues that reading imagining and reimagining history can lead to the formation of beyond textual next generation memory Such memory created through reading is multidimensional as it involves the interpretation of both the present and the past by an individual whose reality has been directly or indirectly shaped by the past over which they have no influence Next generation memory is of anticipatory character which means that authors of historical fiction anticipate the readers both present day and future not to have direct links to any witnesses of the events they discuss and to have little knowledge of the transcultural character of the Ukrainian Canadian diaspora

Discourses That Matter Maria José Canelo, 2013-10-03 How can English and American Studies be instrumental to conceptualizing the deep instability we are presently facing How can they address the coordinates of this instability such as war terrorism the current economic and financial crisis and the consequent myriad forms of deprivation and fear How can they tackle the strategies of de humanization invisibility and the naturalization of inequality and injustice entailed in contemporary discourses This anthology grew out of an awareness of the need to debate the role of English and American Studies both in the present context and in relation to the so called demise of the Humanities Drawing on Judith Butler's rethinking of materiality as the effect of power in her study Bodies That Matter 1993 we locate this collection of essays at the crossroads of discourse and power while we expect the work collected here to highlight the ability of discourses to materialize in or as truth and as such to support or decry particular constituencies Discourses therefore matter to us as products and vehicles of power relations that can be subject to the analytical and interpretative tools of English and American Studies Our idea was to challenge especially young scholars to position their research concerning the ability of their fields to be discourses that matter in the case in point to be critical practices that make an active intervention in current debates By focusing on matters such as language as witness to the world representations of gender race and ethnicity performative discourses exceptionalism and power and interculturality these essays pursue the chance to deepen enlarge and question both literary and cultural phenomena their established critical readings and the strategies deployed in representations Finally English and American Studies in the present collection demonstrate their affiliation to the Humanities by exploring the numerous possibilities offered by their discourses their ability to foster critical thought allowing us to think for and outside ourselves their capacity to test argue and question and their profound imaginative potential
