Women, Violence and Postmillennial Romance Fiction Emma Roche, 2023-04-21 This book interrogates the significance of the revival and reformulation of the romance genre in the postmillennial period Emma Roche examines how six popular novels published between 2005 and 2015 Twilight Fifty Shades of Grey Gone Girl Sharp Objects and The Girl on the Train reanimate and modify recognisable tropes from the romance genre to reflect a neoliberal and postfeminist cultural climate As such Roche argues these novels function as crucial spaces for interrogating and challenging those contemporary gender ideologies Throughout the book Roche addresses and critiques several key attributes of neoliberal postfeminism including a pervasive emphasis on individualism and personal responsibility an insistent requirement for self monitoring self surveillance and bodywork the celebration of consumerism and its associated pleasures the prescription of mandatory optimism and suppressing one's negative emotions and the endorsement of choice as a primary marker of women's empowerment While much critical attention has been devoted to those attributes and their pernicious effects Roche argues that one crucial repercussion has been largely overlooked in contemporary cultural criticism how these ideologies function together to effectively sanction gender based violence Thus Roche exploits textual analysis to demonstrate the subtle ways in which neoliberal postfeminism can augment women's vulnerability to male violence

Seeking Love in Modern Britain Zoe Strimpel, 2020-03-05 Seeking Love in Modern Britain charts the emergence of the modern British single through an account of the dating industry that sprang up to serve men and women It shows how amid a period of unprecedented sexual and social change the single became a key unisex identity and lifestyle From around 1970 a growing cottage style matchmaking industry in Britain was offering the romantically solo a choice between computer dating firms such as Dateline or Computate introduction agencies and the lonely hearts pages of Private Eye Time Out and others Zoe Strimpel reveals how this rapidly expanding landscape of services was catering to a new breed of single people and how by the late 1990s singleness had become the culturally mainstream wholly expected part of the romantic life cycle that it is today Refuting the widespread idea that the Internet invented modern dating this book uses an eclectic and engaging range of first person accounts and snapshots from the time to show that the story of contemporary romance mediated courtship and singleness began in a time long before Tinder

Modern Love David Shumway, 2003-08-01 My ideas of romance came from the movies said Woody Allen and it is to the movies as well as to novels advice columns and self help books that David Shumway turns for his history of modern love Modern Love argues that a crisis in the meaning and experience of marriage emerged when it lost its institutional function of controlling the distribution of property and instead came to be seen as a locus for feelings of desire togetherness and loss Over the course of the twentieth century partly in response to this crisis a new language of love intimacy emerged not so much replacing but rather coexisting with the earlier language of romance Reading a wide range of texts from early twentieth century advice columns and their late twentieth century antecedent the relationship self help book to Hollywood screwball comedies and from the relationship films of Woody Allen and his successors to contemporary realist novels about marriages Shumway argues that the kinds of stories the culture has told itself have changed Part layperson s history of marriage and romance part meditation on intimacy itself Modern Love will be both amusing and interesting to almost anyone who thinks about relationships and who doesn t

Reading Women Heidi Brayman Hackel, Catherine E. Kelly, 2011-08-02 In 1500 as many as 99 out of 100 English women may have been illiterate and girls of all social backgrounds were the objects of purposeful efforts to restrict their access to full literacy Three centuries later more than half of all English and Anglo American women could read and the female reader was emerging as a cultural ideal and a market force While scholars have written extensively about women s reading in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and about women s writing in the early modern period they have not attended sufficiently to the critical transformation that took place as female readers and their reading assumed significant cultural and economic power Reading Women brings into conversation the latest scholarship by early modernists and early Americanists on the role of gender in the production and consumption of texts during this expansion of female readership Drawing together historians and literary scholars the essays share a concern with local specificity and material culture Removing women from the historically inaccurate frame of exclusively solitary silent reading the authors collectively return their subjects to the activities that so often coincided with reading shopping sewing talking writing performing and collecting With chapters on samplers storytelling testimony and translation the volume expands notions of reading and literacy and it insists upon a rich and varied narrative that crosses disciplinary boundaries and national borders
