Janhunen, 2012 Mongolian is the principal language spoken by some five million ethnic Mongols living in Outer and Inner Mongolia as well as in adjacent parts of Russia and China The spoken language is divided into a number of mutually intelligible dialects while for writing two separate written languages are used Cyrillic Khalkha in Outer Mongolia the Republic of Mongolia and Written Mongol in Inner Mongolia P R China In this grammatical description the focus is on the standard varieties of the spoken language as used in broadcasting education and everyday casual speech The dialectology of the language and its background as a member of the Mongolic language family are also discussed Mongolian is an agglutinating language with a well developed suffixal morphology In the areal framework the language is a typical member of the trans Eurasian Ural Altaic complex with features such as vowel harmony verb final sentence structure and complex chains of non finite verbal phrases A Grammar of Mangghuer Keith W. Slater, 2005-12-20 This book is a grammar of Mangghuer a Mongolic language spoken by approximately 25 000 people in China s northwestern Qinghai Province Mangghuer is virtually unknown outside China and no grammar of Mangghuer has ever been published in any language The book s primary importance is thus as a systematic grammatical description of a little known language The book also makes a significant contribution to comparative Mongolic studies In addition to the synchronic description of Mangghuer extensive comparison with other Mongolic languages is included demonstrating the genetic relationship of Mangghuer within that family In the course of describing Mangghuer linguistic structures the book also examines issues of interest to linguistic typologists Introduction to Typology Lindsay J. Whaley, 1997 An overview of the major grammatical categories and constructions in the world s languages Introduction to Typology provides a thorough and comprehensive coverage of typology in the areas of morphology and syntax while underscoring the similarities and differences that underlie the vast array of human languages Pedagogically sound this introductory text includes a glossary and highlights and defines each new term as it appears Each chapter concludes with a summary of new terminology and concepts as well as a list of additional related readings Introduction to Typology assumes neither prior knowledge of typology nor extensive background in linguistics making it useful as a primary or supplementary text for a variety of courses particularly those dealing with grammatical structure and linguistic universals The Mongolic Languages Juha Janhunen, 2006-01-27 Once the rulers of the largest land empire that has ever existed on earth the historical Mongols of Chinggis Khan left a linguistic heritage which today survives in the form of more than a dozen different languages collectively termed Mongolic For general linguistic theory the Mongolic languages offer interesting insights to problems of areal typology and structural change An understanding of the Mongolic language family is also a prerequisite for the study of Mongolian and Central Eurasian history and culture This volume is the first comprehensive treatment of the Mongolic languages in English written by an international team of specialists Nominalizations Maria Koptjevskaja-Tamm, 2002-09-11 Based on extensive and diverse material from 70 languages and covering a range of previously undiscussed problems this book provides a thorough analysis of how nominalization types interact with other structural features It focuses on action nominal constructions and in particular the comparison of their syntactic structure with that of finite clauses and of other noun phrases a problem which has claimed much attention in current syntactic theories Supported by rich empirical material and clearly illustrated with examples from all the sample languages the book provides a detailed and consistent basis for constructing a typology of derived constructions and for presenting cross linguistic comparisons Mongolian Studies ,1995
