Nazi Cinema:

Nazi Cinema's New Women Jana F. Bruns, 2009-04-27 This book examines the careers of three of Nazi cinema's preeminent movie actresses painting a unique portrait of mass entertainment and stardom under Nazi rule Bruns uses undiscovered sources and a new approach which integrates visual analysis within a thorough political and social context to trace how the Nazis tried to use films and stars to build National Socialism This analysis focuses on female stars an important but largely unexplored area because they were mostly responsible for Nazi cinema's spectacular commercial success and political failure Challenging earlier studies which view Nazi cinema as an effective propaganda instrument that helped turn Germans into devoted Aryan mothers and tough warriors the book shows that the Nazi regime's liaison with the cinema was ambivalent Films failed to disseminate a coherent political message and to Nazify German society However they helped the regime maintain power by diverting people's attention from the brutality of Hitler's rule and eventually from impending defeat

Nazi Film Melodrama Laura Heins, 2013-09-16 Cultural productions in the Third Reich often served explicit propaganda functions of legitimating racism and glorifying war and militarism Likewise the proliferation of domestic and romance films in Nazi Germany also represented an ideological stance Rather than reinforcing traditional gender role divisions and the status quo of the nuclear family these films were much more permissive about desire and sexuality than previously assumed Focusing on German romance films domestic melodramas and home front films from 1933 to 1945 Nazi Film Melodrama shows how melodramatic elements in Nazi cinema functioned as part of a project to move affect body and desire beyond the confines of bourgeois culture and participate in a curious modernization of sexuality engineered to advance the imperialist goals of the Third Reich Offering a comparative analysis of Nazi productions with classical Hollywood films of the same era Laura Heins argues that German fascist melodramas differed from their American counterparts in their negative views of domesticity and in their use of a more explicit antibourgeois rhetoric Nazi melodramas film writing and popular media appealed to viewers by promoting liberation from conventional sexual morality and familial structures presenting the Nazi state and the individual as dynamic and revolutionary Some spectators objected to the eroticization and modernization of the public sphere under Nazism however pitting Joseph Goebbels' Ministry of Propaganda against more conservative film audiences in a war over the very status of domesticity and the shape of the family Drawing on extensive archival research this perceptive study highlights the seemingly contradictory aspects of gender representation and sexual morality in Nazi era cinema

Nazi Cinema as Enchantment Mary-Elizabeth O'Brien, 2006 The Nazi regime did not merely terrorize its citizens into submission it also seduced them by offering stability a traditional value system a sense of belonging and hope of a better standard of living Nazi cinema's popularity rested on its ability to express positive social fantasies and promote the enchantment of reality so that one would want to share in the dream at any price This is an interdisciplinary study written for scholars and students in the fields of film studies German studies history critical studies and political science that explores how cinema participated in the larger framework of everyday fascism The book examines how five film genres the historical musical the foreign adventure film the home front film the melodrama and the problem film enchanted audiences and enacted shared stories that can tell us much about how family community history the nation and the war were imagined in Nazi Germany The book analyzes thirteen motion pictures many of which are not well known to English speaking audiences Wunschkonzert Die gro e Liebe Tanz auf dem Vulkan Damals Die Degenhardts Opfergang Kautschuk Robert und Bertram Verklungene Melodie Frauen f r Golden Hill Das Leben kann so sch n sein Der verzauberte Tag and Via Mala Based on exhaustive research in German archives the book examines in addition to the films themselves articles from the propaganda ministry s official organ Der deutsche Film daily trade sheets fan magazines and even studio press packages for individual stars and films Mary Elizabeth O'Brien is Professor of German at Skidmore College Saratoga Springs New York

Popular Cinema of the Third Reich Sabine Hake, 2001 Too often dismissed as escapist entertainment or vilified as mass manipulation popular cinema in the Third Reich was in fact sustained by well established generic conventions cultural traditions aesthetic sensibilities social practices and a highly developed star system not unlike its Hollywood counterpart in the 1930s This pathfinding study contributes to the ongoing reassessment of Third Reich cinema by examining it as a social cultural economic and political practice that often conflicted with contradicted and compromised the intentions of the Propaganda Ministry Nevertheless by providing the illusion of a public sphere presumably free of politics popular cinema helped to sustain the Nazi regime especially during the war years Rather than examining Third Reich cinema through overdetermined categories such as propaganda ideology or fascist aesthetics Sabine Hake concentrates on the constituent elements shared by most popular cinemas famous stars directors and studios movie audiences and exhibition practices popular genres and new trends in set design the reception of foreign films the role of film criticism and the representation of women She pays special attention to the forced coordination of the industry in 1933 the changing demands on cinema during the war years and the various ways of coming to terms with these filmic legacies after the war Throughout Hake s findings underscore the continuities among Weimar Third Reich and post 1945 West German cinema They also emphasize the codevelopment of German and other national cinemas especially the dominant Hollywood model Ministry of Illusion

Eric Rentschler, 1996-10-01 Eric Rentschler argues that cinema in the Third Reich emanated from a Ministry of Illusion and not from a Ministry of Fear His analysis of the sophisticated media culture of this period demonstrates in an unprecedented way the potent and destructive powers of fascination and fantasy Nonfiction Film Richard Barsam, 1992-11-22 Richard Barsam has given us as comprehensive a study of the origins and development of the nonfiction mode in motion pictures as we are ever likely to have in one volume He draws on all the major written sources and many which are little known and he shares with us many eloquent descriptions of the films themselves giving us a valuable textbook Richard Dyer MacCann superb work Historical Journal of Film Radio and Television The Concise Cinegraph ans-Michael Bock,,im

Bergfelder, 2009-09-01 This comprehensive guide is an ideal reference work for film specialists and enthusiasts First published in 1984 but continuously updated ever since CineGraph is the most authoritative and comprehensive encyclopedia on German speaking cinema in the German language This condensed and substantially revised English language edition makes this important resource available to students and researchers for the first time outside its German context It offers a representative historical overview through bio filmographical entries on the main protagonists from the beginnings to the present day Included are directors and actors writers and cameramen composers and production designers film theorists and critics producers and distributors inventors and manufacturers An appendix includes short introductory essays on specific periods and movements such as Early Film Weimar Nazi Cinema DEFA New German Cinema and German film since unification as well as on cinematic developments in Austria and Switzerland Sections that crossreference names around specific professional groups and themes will prove equally invaluable to researchers Antisemitism in Film Comedy in Nazi Germany Valerie Weinstein, 2020-03-04

How party propagandists worked behind the scenes to create unspoken racist messages in the German culture even in the most lighthearted of movies Today many Germans look back fondly on 1930s film comedies viewing them as a part of the Nazi era that was not tainted with antisemitism Here Valerie Weinstein scrutinizes these comic productions and demonstrates that film comedy despite its innocent appearance was a critical component in the effort to separate Jews from Germans physically economically and artistically Weinstein highlights how the German propaganda ministry used directives pre and post production censorship financial incentives and influence over film critics and their judgments to replace Jewish wit with a slower simpler and more direct German humor that affirmed values that the Nazis associated with the Aryan race Through contextualized analyses of historical documents and individual films Weinstein reveals how humor coded hints and traces absences and substitutes in Third Reich film comedy helped spectators imagine an abstract Jewishness and a German identity and community free from the former As resurgent populist nationalism and overt racism continue to grow around the world today Weinstein s study helps us rethink racism and prejudice in popular culture and reconceptualize the relationships between film humor national identity and race Hitler and Nazi Germany Jackson J. Spielvogel, 2016-09-16

This text is based on current research findings and is written for students and general readers who want a deeper understanding of this period in German history It provides a balanced approach in examining Hitler s role in the history of the Third Reich and includes coverage of the economic social and political forces that made the rise and growth of Nazism possible the institutional cultural and social life of the Third Reich the Second World War and the Holocaust

Film and Nationalism Alan Larson Williams, 2002 This text examines the ways in which cinema has been considered an arena of conflict and interaction between nations and nationhood Cinema in Democratizing Germany Heide Fehrenbach, 2000-11-09

Heide Fehrenbach analyzes the important role cinema played in the reconstruction of German cultural and political identity between 1945 and 1962 Concentrating on the former West Germany she explores the complex political uses of film and the meanings attributed to film representation and spectatorship during a period of abrupt transition to democracy According to Fehrenbach the process of national redefinition made cinema and cinematic control a focus of heated ideological debate Moving beyond a narrow political examination of Allied German negotiations she investigates the broader social nexus of popular moviegoing public demonstrations film clubs and municipal festivals She also draws on work in gender and film studies to probe the ways filmmakers students church leaders local politicians and the general public articulated national identity in relation to the challenges posed by military occupation American commercial culture and redefined gender roles Thus highlighting the links between national identity and cultural practice this book provides a richer picture of what German reconstruction entailed for both women and men Nazi Films in America, 1933-1942 Harry Waldman, 2020-08-05 From 1933 until America's entry into World War II in 1941 nearly 500 Nazi films were shown in American theaters accounting for nearly half of all foreign language film imports during the period These poorly disguised propaganda films were produced by Germany's top studios and featured prominent pro German and Nazi actors directors and technicians The films were replete with overt and covert anti Jewish imagery and themes but in spite of this obvious intent to use the medium to justify Nazi ascendancy viewers and film critics from such prominent publications as the New York Times Variety the Washington Post and the Chicago Times consistently overlooked the films anti Semitic message dubbing them harmless entertainment This is the complete history of German films shown in America from the founding of the Nazi government to America's involvement in the war Summaries descriptions and discussions of these almost 500 films serve to examine the major filmmakers and distributors who kept the German film industry alive during the rule of Hitler and the Third Reich Special emphasis is placed on films directly commissioned by Joseph Goebbels head of the German Ministry for the Enlightenment of the People and Propaganda and the man directly responsible for ensuring that the anti Semitic ideology of the new regime was reflected in all films produced after January 30 1933 Rarely seen photographs and illustrations complete an in depth study of the Nazi use of this global medium Cinema Inferno Robert G. Weiner, John Cline, 2010-07-17 Cinema Inferno Celluloid Explosions from the Cultural Margins addresses significant areas and eras of transgressive filmmaking including many subgenres and styles that have not yet received much critical attention This collection of essays covers both contemporary films and those produced in the last 50 years to provide a theoretical framework for looking at transgressive cinema and what that means This volume begins with a number of essays that examine the aesthetic of realism tracing it through the late Italian Neo Realism of Pasolini the early films of Melvin Van Peebles and Canadian filmmaker Guy Maddin Another section focuses on 70s Italian horror and thrillers including a substantially different examination of filmmaker Dario Argento as well as essays on critically underrepresented directors Lucio Fulci and Sergio Martino A section on New York looks at both radical independents like Troma and Andy Milligan as well as the social context from which a view of the metropolis in decay emerged Sections also cover the experimental work of the Vienna Action Group and controversial filmmaker Michael Haneke as well as films and genres too idiosyncratic and disturbing to fit anywhere else including analyses of Nazi propaganda films fundamentalist Christian scare movies and postwar Japanese youth films The final essays try to come to terms with a mainstream flirtation with transgressive film and Grindhouse aesthetics

A Critical History of German Film Stephen Brockmann, 2010 A history of German film dealing with individual films as works of art has long been needed Existing histories tend to treat cinema as an economic rather than an aesthetic phenomenon earlier surveys that do engage with individual films do not include films of recent decades This book treats representative films from the beginnings of German film to the present Providing historical context through an introduction and interchapters preceding the treatments of each era's films the volume is suitable for semester or year long survey courses and for anyone with an interest in German cinema The films The Student of Prague The Cabinet of Dr Caligari The Last Laugh Metropolis The Blue Angel M Triumph of the Will The Great Love The Murderers Are among Us Sun Seekers Trace of Stones The Legend of Paul and Paula Solo Sunny The Bridge Young T rless Aguirre The Wrath of God Germany in Autumn The Marriage of Maria Braun The Tin Drum Marianne and Juliane Wings of Desire Maybe Maybe Not Rossini Run Lola Run Good Bye Lenin Head On The Lives of Others Stephen Brockmann is Professor of German at Carnegie Mellon University and past President of the German Studies Association

Continuity and Crisis in German Cinema, 1928-1936 Barbara Hales, Mihaela Petrescu, Valerie Weinstein, 2016 New essays examining the differences and commonalities between late Weimar era and early Nazi era German cinema against a backdrop of the crises of that time

A New History of German Cinema Jennifer M. Kapczynski, Michael David Richardson, 2012 A dynamic event centered exploration of the hundred year history of German language film This dynamic event centered anthology offers a new understanding of the hundred year history of German language film from the earliest days of the Kintopp to contemporary productions like The Lives of Others Each of the more than eighty essays takes a key date as its starting point and explores its significance for German film history pursuing its relationship with its social political and aesthetic moment While the essays offer ample temporal and topical spread this book emphasizes the juxtaposition of famous and unknown stories granting attention to a wide range of cinematic events Brief section introductions provide a larger historical and film historical framework that illuminates the essays within it offering both scholars and the general reader a setting for the individual texts and figures under investigation Cross references to other essays in the book are included at the close of each entry encouraging readers not only to pursue familiar trajectories in the development of German film but also to trace particular figures and motifs across genres and historical periods Together the contributions offer a new view of the multiple intersecting narratives that make up German language cinema The constellation that is thus established challenges unidirectional narratives of German film history and charts new ways of thinking about film historiography more broadly Jennifer Kapczynski is Associate Professor of German at Washington University St Louis and Michael Richardson is Associate of sound on adaptation practices the abuse of literary heritage by Nazi filmmakers and traces the role of German language literature in exile and postwar films across ideological boundaries in divided Germany in New German Cinema and in remakes and movies for cinema as well as television and streaming services in the 21st century Having provided the narrative core to thousands of films since the late 19th century many of German cinema's most influential masterpieces were inspired by canonical texts popular plays and even children's literature Not being restricted to German adaptations however this book also traces the role of literature originally written in German in international film productions which sheds light on the interrelation between cinema and key historical events It outlines how processes of adaptation are shaped by global catastrophes and the emergence of nations by materialist conditions liberal economies and capitalist imperatives political agendas the mobility of individuals and sometimes by the desire to create reflective surfaces and perhaps even art Commercial cinema's adaptation practices have foregrounded economic interest but numerous filmmakers throughout cinema history have turned to German language literature not simply to entertain but as a creative contribution to the public sphere marking adaptation practice at least potentially as a form of active citizenship
