Radiation Hazards to Crews of Interplanetary Missions National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Space Studies Board,Commission on Physical Sciences, Mathematics, and Applications,Task Group on the Biological Effects of Space Radiation,1997-02-27 NASA s long range plans include possible human exploratory missions to the moon and Mars within the next quarter century Such missions beyond low Earth orbit will expose crews to transient radiation from solar particle events as well as continuous high energy galactic cosmic rays ranging from energetic protons with low mean linear energy transfer LET to nuclei with high atomic numbers high energies and high LET Because the radiation levels in space are high and the missions long adequate shielding is needed to minimize the deleterious health effects of exposure to radiation The knowledge base needed to design shielding involves two sets of factors each with quantitative uncertainty the radiation spectra and doses present behind different types of shielding and the effects of the doses on relevant biological systems It is only prudent to design shielding that will protect the crew of spacecraft exposed to predicted high but uncertain levels of radiation and biological effects Because of the uncertainties regarding the degree and type of radiation protection needed a requirement for shielding to protect against large deleterious but uncertain biological effects may be imposed which in turn could result in an unacceptable cost to a mission It therefore is of interest to reduce these uncertainties in biological effects and shielding requirements for reasons of mission feasibility safety and cost Nuclear Science Abstracts ,1975-05 Robotics Yoky Matsuoka,Hugh Durrant-Whyte,Jose Neira,2011-08-05 Papers from a flagship robotics conference that cover topics ranging from kinematics to human robot interaction and robot perception Robotics
