discourse and data in depth using both empirical data and theoretical perspectives In Part III Looking Forward the authors step back from the issues of network science to take a broader view focusing on the question How should the Internet be used and not used to support student learning The book concludes with a reminder that technology will not replace teachers Rather the power of new technologies to give students both an overwhelming access to resources experts peers teachers texts images and data and the opportunity to pursue questions of their own design increases the need for highly skilled teachers and forward looking administrators This is a book for them and for all educators policymakers students involved in science and technology education For more information about the authors an archived discussions space a few chapters that can be downloaded as PDF files and ordering information visit teaparty.terc.edu/book Yachting ,1980-11 The
