Katharine Bradbury, 2009-02 Examines three decades of data on the relationship between women s labor market activity and the income mobility of families that lose a spouse through death divorce or separation Wives labor market activity acts as partial insurance for women and their families against the negative economic consequences of marital dissolution However while women who lose their husbands increase their earnings significantly the number of upwardly mobile families is quite small and a majority of families actually move down In addition they do less well in successive decades These findings imply that U S social and economic policies currently leave considerable gaps in insurance for families in the event of marital dissolution Tables and graphs
