Langhammer, Lúcio Vinhas de Souza, 2007-08-07 Latin America is a very important region of the globe which has been buffeted by successive waves of economic instability within the last decades These waves have caused several episodes of hyperinflation or near hyperinflation and several currency and financial crises which in certain moments have even spilled over and affected other emerging markets This has resulted in huge costs in terms of lost potential growth and as is inevitable the markets most affected by this have been the least capable of defending themselves In a region plagued by still considerable rates of social exclusion with some of the highest rates of income concentration in the whole globe the human costs of these crises have been very substantial Starting in the early 1990s the slow implementation of reforms plus the resumption of more sustained growth to a substantial degree linked to the increase in commodity prices especially since the early 2000s seems to have resulted in a more stable situation Initially in early reformers like Chile later in the larger economies of the region like Brazil and Mexico a consensus embraced by both sides of the political spectrum towards integration in global markets both in their trade and financial components floating exchange rates independent monetary authorities and sustainable fiscal policies has emerged Applied International Trade Analysis Harry Bowen, Abraham Hollander, Jean-Marie Viaene, 1998 An international trade text that integrates theoretical and applied methods Dynamic Issues in Applied Commercial Policy Analysis Richard E. Baldwin, Joseph F. Francois, 1999 Dynamic Issues In Commercial Policy Analysis is the latest book in the sequence of volumes from Centre for Economic Policy Research and should be a useful reference for anyone interested in the assessment of international trade and investment policy and the applied study of the dynamic implications of trade policy Bridges for Development Robert Devlin, Antoni Estevadeordal, 2003 Latin America has been pursuing intense structural reforms since the mid 1980s The reforms have been a primary instrument for achieving the development goals of stable and higher rates of economic growth more social equity and a solid democratic setting The region has advanced on all three fronts but much more needs to be done Bridges for Development explores options to strengthen policies and institutions for deepening structural reforms in all areas of development through trade and integration Making advances in these areas is critical because the multilateral negotiations in the Doha Development Round are contingent on the complex dynamics of worldwide consensus and Latin America's capacity to adequately represent its interests in terms of determining the direction of unilateral policy and regional initiatives However as the book points out it might be said that the easy stages of unilateral trade and regional integration are over the next steps toward consolidation will require countries to redouble their political will to confront difficult challenges as well as to refine policies build stronger institutional structures to support them and work better with civil society The wave of market opening and regionalism in the 1990s has provided new opportunities in these areas Policy Evaluation with Computable General Equilibrium Models Amedeo Fossati, Wolfgang Wiegard, 2003-09-02 Computable General Equilibrium CGE modelling is a relatively new field in economics however it is rapidly becoming one of the most useful tools for policy evaluation This book applies CGE modelling to some of the most urgent international economic policy problems including the Kyoto Protocol pension reform and income taxation and also analyses the methodological issues that arise The Economics of Regional Trading Arrangements Richard W. T. Pomfret, 2001 Regionalism became a major issue in international commercial diplomacy during the 1990s The European Union's 1992 program the formation of NAFTA and attempts to form or strengthen regional trading arrangements in South America southern Africa and Southeast Asia were all viewed as challenges to the nondiscrimination principle that had been the cornerstone of the postwar international trading system This book provides a unified analysis of policies which discriminate among trading partners featuring ample treatments of both history and theory as well as a review of empirical studies
