The Devil from over the Sea Sarah Covington,2022-03-24 In Ireland few figures have generated more hatred than Oliver Cromwell whose seventeenth century conquest massacres and dispossessions would endure in the social memory for ages to come The Devil from over the Sea explores the many ways in which Cromwell was remembered and sometimes conveniently forgotten in historical religious political and literary texts according to the interests of different communities across time Cromwell s powerful afterlife in Ireland however cannot be understood without also investigating his presence in folklore and the landscape in ruins and curses Nor can he be separated from the idea of the Cromwellian a term which came to elicit an entire chain of contemptuous associations that would begin after his invasion and assume a wholly new force in the nineteenth century What emerges from all these memorializing traces is a multitudinous Cromwell who could be represented as brutal comic sympathetic or satanic He could be discarded also tellingly from the accounts of the past and especially by those which viewed him as an embarrassment or worse In addition to exploring the many reasons why Cromwell was so vehemently remembered or forgotten in Ireland Sarah Covington finally uncovers the larger truths conveyed by sometimes fanciful or invented accounts Contrary to being damaging examples of myth making the memorializations contained in martyrologies folk tales or newspaper polemics were often productive in cohering communities or in displaying agency in the form of counter memories that claimed Cromwell for their own and reshaped Irish history in the process

A Commerce of Knowledge Simon Mills, 2020-01-07 A Commerce of Knowledge tells the story of three generations of Church of England chaplains who served the English Levant Company in Syria during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Reconstructing the careers of its protagonists in the cosmopolitan city of Ottoman Aleppo Simon Mills investigates the links between English commercial and diplomatic expansion and English scholarly and missionary interests the study of Middle Eastern languages the exploration of biblical and Greco Roman antiquities and the early dissemination of Protestant literature in Arabic Early modern Orientalism is usually conceived as an episode in the history of scholarship By shifting the focus to Aleppo A Commerce of Knowledge brings to light the connections between the seemingly separate worlds tracing the emergence of new kinds of philological and archaeological enquiry in England back to a series of real world encounters between the chaplains and the scribes booksellers priests rabbis and sheikhs they encountered in the Ottoman Empire Setting the careers of its protagonists against a background of broader developments across Protestant and Catholic Europe Mills shows how the institutionalization of English scholarship and the later English attempt to influence the Eastern Christian churches were bound up with the international struggle to establish a commercial foothold in the Levant He argues that these connections would endure until the shift of British commercial and imperial interests to the Indian subcontinent in the second half of the eighteenth century fostered new currents of intellectual life at home

Urban Communities and Memories in East-Central Europe in the Modern Age Aleksander Łupienko, 2024-08-07. This edited volume studies the logic of community formation and the common view of the past to show how various social bonds of communities functioned during the modern national era of East Central Europe from the late eighteenth century until today and how multifaceted this group building really was. Through an overview of selected examples of communities in East Central European urban centres, mainly the territories of the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth and its successor empires, the volume shows the potential of re-interpretation or adaptation of the past as a crucial tool for assuring social cohesion and for strengthening the image of group boundaries. It studies not only textual sources but also the cultural construction of local historical writings such as oral tradition and municipal publications as well as symbolic objects such as epitaphs, plaques, monuments and public edifices. The contributors explore the actual creativity employed by these communities to envision their past and their future in homage to the ideals of centralised nationalism or regionalism and how these strongly ethnically marked historic spaces can be interpreted, celebrated or neglected. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of regional urban history and cultural diversities, memory cultures and community formation.

The Mamluk Sultanate from the Perspective of Regional and World History Reuven Amitai, Stephan Conermann, 2019-06-17. The Mamluk Sultanate represents an extremely interesting case study to examine social, economic and cultural developments in the transition into the rapidly changing modern world. On the one hand, it is the heir of a political and military tradition that goes back hundreds of years and brought this to a high pitch that enabled astounding victories over serious external threats. On the other hand, as time went on, it was increasingly confronted with modern problems that would necessitate fundamental changes in its structure and content. The Mamluk period was one of great religious and social change and in many ways the modern demographic map was established at this time. This volume shows that the situation of the Mamluk Sultanate was far from that of decadence and until the end, it was a vibrant society, although not without tensions and increasing problems that did its best to adapt and compete in a rapidly changing world.
