Pluralisation of Theologies at European Universities Wolfram Weiße, Julia Ipgrave, Oddbjørn Leirvik, Muna Tatari, 2020 This publication assumes that the modern context of plurality requires universities and higher education to support studying plural religious traditions in depth giving due consideration to plural religious and secular perspectives and providing opportunities for interaction between them There are various ways to realise these aims Success may be supported or hindered by various structures and concepts prevalent in universities or by different schools of thought on the nature of religions on their relation to each other and on their place in society Religions and theologies can be studied in parallel in cooperation in dialogue or through integrative approaches The differing theoretical positions and contextual conditions institutional social political within which inter religious learning takes place are an important focus of this publication both for the possibilities they open up and the limitations they pose This publication builds on the presentations and discussions of scholars participating at a conference at the University of Hamburg in December 2018 with some additional contributions from others in the field who were unable to attend in person

Context, Plurality, and Truth Mika Vähäkangas, 2020-02-10 The world has shrunk in the processes of globalization and the old ways of actively ignoring plurality in theology are no longer viable Contextual differences between different Christian traditions and theologies are highly visible due to improved communications and migration These differences also witness that this plurality has existed since the very beginning of Christianity Religious studies demonstrate that no religion is pure and hermetically sealed from others but they all are syncretistic in the sense of giving and taking In the world of religions where boundaries are porous and the internal plurality of Christianity is vast there is a temptation either to reject the plurality in a fideistic manner or succumb to relativism The first solution is intellectually hard to defend and relativism is often seen as detrimental to Christian identity This book proposes a way of recognizing the contextual and syncretistic dimensions of pluralism while not surrendering to relativism Christian identity and tradition can be affirmed while staying open to the challenges of pluralism History of the French in India George Bruce Malleson, 1909
