Samson, John I. Pitt, 2013-11-11 In our view the First International Penicillium and Aspergillus Workshop held in Baarn and Amsterdam in May 1985 was a great success The assembly in one place of so many specialists in these two genera produced both interesting viewpoints and lively discussions But more particularly a remarkable cohesion of ideas emerged borne primarily of the realisation that taxonomy has passed from the hands of the solitary morphologist The future of taxonomy lay in collaborative and multidisciplinary studies embracing morphology physiology and newer methodologies Penicillium and Aspergillus Workshop was borne logically The Second International from the first and was held in Baarn on May 8 12 1989 It was attended by 38 scientists from 16 countries At this Workshop we have attempted to move further into new methods especially by bringing together molecular biologists medical and food mycologists and biochemists as well as more traditional taxonomists We feel that the meeting contributed greatly to dialogue between taxonomists and also fundamental and applied mycologists At the meeting we became aware that the approach to taxonomy of these genera is now becoming more pragmatic with an increasing emphasis on consensus and on stability of names This is a noteworthy development which we as editors welcome So many species in Penicillium and Aspergillus are economically important in biotechnology foods and medicine and practical stable taxonomy is of vital importance These Proceedings comprise 40 papers divided into 9 chapters

The Concept of Nature in Early Modern English Literature Peter Remien,2019-02-14 The Concept of Nature in Early Modern English Literature traces a genealogy of ecology in seventeenth century literature and natural philosophy through the development of the protoecological concept of the oeconomy of nature Founded in 1644 by Kenelm Digby this concept was subsequently employed by a number of theologians physicians and natural philosophers to conceptualize nature as an interdependent system Focusing on the middle decades of the seventeenth century Peter Remien examines how Samuel Gott Walter Charleton Robert Boyle Samuel Collins and Thomas Burnet formed the oeconomy of nature Remien also shows how literary authors Ben Jonson George Herbert Andrew Marvell Margaret Cavendish and John Milton use the discourse of oeconomy to explore the contours of humankind s relationship with the natural world This book participates in an intellectual history of the science of ecology while prompting a re evaluation of how we understand the relationship between literature and ecology in the early modern period

The Power of the West in the Economy of Grace Eskil Jonsson,2013-06-27 The overall problem raised in this book is that the Western culture of modern rationality power and economics departs from a rather narrow secular and ego centric worldview Therefore it does not recognize the identity of traditional cultures and religions nor social economic or ecological justice in relation to the rest of the world Western religion has over history often played a legitimating role for political power and the expansion of institutional structures and has therefore lost much of its prophetic identity to be signs of peace justice and unity The ecumenical and integrative model of stewardship as an economy of grace with a deeper ecological philosophy does however offer new visions for a multicultural and multireligious economy This book is intended for leaders students and scholars interested in interdisciplinary studies of politics religion economics and ecology This will also be of interest to students and researchers in peace studies or conflict management as well as to leaders who are engaged in the building of peace and justice

Pattern and Process in Macroecology Kevin Gaston, Tim Blackburn, 2008-04-15 Issues of scale have become increasingly important to ecologists This book addresses the structure of regional large scale ecological assemblages or communities and the influence this has at a local small scale level This macroecological perspective is essential for the broader study of ecology because the structure and function of local communities cannot be properly understood without reference to the region in which they are situated The book reviews and synthesizes the issues of current importance in macroecology providing a balanced summary of the field that will be useful for biologists at advanced undergraduate level and above These general issues are illustrated by frequent reference to specific well studied local and regional assemblages an approach that serves to relate the macroecological perspective which is perhaps often difficult to comprehend to the everyday experience of local sites Macroecology is an expanding and dynamic discipline The broad aim of the book is to promote an understanding of why it is such an important part of the wider program of research into ecology Summarises the current macroecological literature Provides numerous examples of key patterns Explicitly links local and regional scale processes Exploits detailed knowledge of one species assemblage to explore broad issues in the structuring of biodiversity

Rationality and the Environment Bo Eling, 2012-05-04 Environmental assessment and management involve the production of scientific knowledge and its use in decision making processes The result is that within these essentially rational political assessment frameworks experts are creating and applying scientific knowledge for decision and management purposes that actually have strong ethical and aesthetic dimensions Yet these rational political frameworks lack the tools to provide guidance on ethical and aesthetic issues that affect the wider public This revolutionary work argues that ethical and aesthetic dimensions can only be brought into environmental politics and policies by citizens actively taking a stand on the specific matters in question The author draws on Habermas trisection of rationality as cognitive instrumental moral practical and aesthetic expressive to suggest that truly effective environmental policy needs to activate all three approaches and not favour only the rational To achieve this objective the author argues that public participation in environmental policy and assessment is necessary to counteract the dictatorship of technical and economic instrumentality in environmental policy the failure to take ethical and aesthetic rationalities into account and more importantly how such policy is applied on the ground to shape our natural and material world
