Cosmopolitanism and Tourism Robert Shepherd, 2017-12-12 Within tourism studies the cosmopolitan potentials of tourism have often been situated within a broader conversation about globalization an approach that implies that cosmopolitanism is a predictable by product of globalization and becoming more cosmopolitan should be the goal of travel And yet a fundamental value of a cosmopolitan outlook namely to not only to be at home in the world but also to experience the world in an authentic sense depends on the culturally embedded parochial and particular world views which it rejects In Cosmopolitanism and Tourism Rethinking Theory and Practice contributors take this as a starting point What does a worldly consciousness mean to people situated in different cultural landscapes and to what extent might these intersect with cosmopolitan values How is cosmopolitanism marketed in tourism and tourist related industries such as service learning and study abroad And finally what roles do social and economic class educational background gender and other factors have in cosmopolitan claims The contributors to this edited collection address these questions in a series of case studies that range from Guatemala Bolivia and Ireland to China India and Dubai For more information check out A Conversation with Robert Shepherd author of Cosmopolitanism and Tourism Rethinking Theory and Practice Intercultural Communication and Creative Practice Laura Lengel, 2004-09-30 Lengel takes the reader on a journey from India and Romania where women preserve cultural rituals through mourning songs to South Africa where the body is a site of struggle for meaning and power
