Radikalnationalismus in Syrien und Libanon; Politische Sozialisation und Elitenbildung, 1930-1958

Hamburg, Deutsches Orient Institut, 2001

A Homage to Pierre Bourdieu

Christoph Schumann's monograph on "Radical Nationalism in Syria and Lebanon; Political Socialization and Elite Formation, 1930-1958" offers an authoritative new approach to the growing historical literature in France and the US on Arab nationalisms during the Mandate period. He provides us with an stringent frame of analysis of how to deal with events that took place in the early parts of the century written down in the late 20th-century. Guided by the fundamental hypothesis that "human beings are historically and socially constituted and reside in an intermediary position between social structure and discourse" (p. 3), Schumann sets the methodological parameters in the introductory section. He sees his challenge in using autobiography as a historical source and goes to great lengths to navigate his analysis through the historiographical and theoretical maze of existing scholarship. Drawing on an in-depth discussion of Michel Foucault's archaeological method of discourse analysis ("between structuralism and hermeneutics") and Pierre Bourdieu's notions of social space, cultural capital and habitus, he argues that nationalism is a narrative construct that "has no origin or an essential inherent meaning, but rather a palpable composition, regularity and position in social discourse" (p. 19). Thus he shares with Rashid Khalidi (Palestinian Identity 1997) and James Gelvin (Divided Loyalties, 1998) the points that nationalism is multi-vocal and conjectural, has no singular root or authorship and that it is contingent on competing publics, symbols, slogans and rituals.
