A Death in the Rainforest Don Kulick, 2019-06-18 Perhaps the finest and most profound account of ethnographic fieldwork and discovery that has ever entered the anthropological literature The Wall Street Journal If you want to experience a profoundly different culture without the exhausting travel to say nothing of the cost this is an excellent choice The Washington Post As a young anthropologist Don Kulick went to the tiny village of Gapun in New Guinea to document the death of the native language Tayap He arrived knowing that you can't study a language without understanding the daily lives of the people who speak it how they talk to their children how they argue how they gossip how they joke Over the course of thirty years he returned again and again to document Tayap before it disappeared entirely and he found himself inexorably drawn into their world and implicated in their destiny Kulick wanted to tell the story of Gapuners one that went beyond the particulars and uses of their language that took full stock of their vanishing culture This book takes us inside the village as he came to know it revealing what it is like to live in a difficult to get to village of two hundred people carved out like a cleft in the middle of a tropical rainforest But A Death in the Rainforest is also an illuminating look at the impact of Western culture on the farthest reaches of the globe and the story of why this anthropologist realized finally that he had to give up his study of this language and this village An engaging deeply perceptive and brilliant interrogation of what it means to study a culture A Death in the Rainforest takes readers into a world that endures in the face of massive changes one that is on the verge of disappearing forever

Distribution and ecology of vascular plants in a tropical rain forest J.B. Hall,M.D. Swaine,2013-04-18 It is a privilege to be asked and a pleasurable duty for me to write the foreword of this book The conservation and wise utilisation of the humid tropical forests a unique biome are matters of great concern and importance to millions living within and around these forests and perhaps less directly to the totality of mankind These forests provide many essential products and services for mankind The list is lengthy and need not be repeated here Suffice it to say that there are not many aspects of human activity which do not utilise some of these products services or derivatives therefrom Yet it is the view of those most closely associated with the study of these forests that what is known is but a minuscule portion of whatthere is to know The products and services now utilised are perhaps some infinitesimal part of the full potential All over the tropical world however these forests are being destroyed At first slowly but now surely gathering tempo This is true also of Ghana Tracts offorest land are converted to other uses often ephemeral and not sustained Irreversible changes take place in our environment The gains are shortlived the losses unobtrusively accumulate and stay forever The accelerating rate of deforestation in the face of our relatively scanty knowledge of this biome is indeed a sad reflection of the state of human affairs It is in this setting that one welcomes this book by Messrs J B Hall and M D Swaine      A Rainforest Food Chain Angelique D. Tarbox,2008-07

Introduces some of the plants and animals of the rainforest food chain including the cacao tree the quetzal leafcutter ant poison dart frog boa constrictor king vulture vampire bat and jaguar      Tropical Rain Forest Ecosystems H. Lieth,M.J.A.

Werger,2012-12-02 After publication of the first volume of the Tropical Rain Forest the International Journal of Mycology and Lichenology commented This is a welcome addition to the literature on the ecology of tropical rain forests The book provides a wealth of data and stimulating discussions and is of great interest to ecologists interested in tropical areas Whereas the first volume dealt with system ecological aspects such as community organization and processes the present volume concentrates on biogeographical aspects such as species composition diversity and geographical variation Recent ecological research in the tropical rain forest has greatly extended our understanding of biogeographical patterns of variation in the various groups of organisms and has revealed many of the ecological and evolutionary forces that led to the present patterns of variation Many important systems of co evolution between the tropical rain forest ecosystems have also come to light and the loss of species and related damage is better understood in quantitative terms This volume presents a comprehensive review of these and other features of the rain forest ecosystem structure and the ecological processes operating that system General chapters on abiotic and biotic factors are followed by specific chapters on all major groups of organisms Prospects for the future are discussed and research needs clearly stated Also the human exploitation of the system its effects and its limits are discussed The book is extensively illustrated by photographs graphs and tables and comprehensive bibliographies follow each chapter Author systematic and subject indices complete the book It is a must for all ecologists agriculturists foresters agronomists hydrologists soil scientists entomologists human ecologists nature conservationists and planners dealing with tropical areas Biologists and environmentalists will also find the volume of great interest Ecology of Angola Brian John Huntley,2023-03-07 This open access book richly illustrates the first and comprehensive account of the country s biomes and ecoregions the driving forces that account for their diversity and vulnerability and the ecological principles that provide an understanding of the patterns and processes that have shaped landscapes ecoregions and ecosystems Angola encompasses the greatest diversity of terrestrial biomes and is the second richest in terms of ecoregions of any African country Yet its biodiversity and the structure and functioning of its ecosystems are largely undocumented The author draws on personal field observations from over 50 years of involvement in ecological and conservation studies in Angola and across Southern Africa The vast recent literature published by researchers in neighboring better resourced countries provides depth to the accounts of ecological principles and processes relevant to Angola and thus contributing to the understanding and sustainable management of its natural resources Aotus: The Owl Monkey Janet F.
