the child journeying far from home In There's No Place Like Home distinguished film scholar Stephanie Hemelryk Donald offers a fresh interpretation of the migrant child as a recurring figure in world cinema Displaced or placeless children and the idea of childhood itself are vehicles to examine migration and cosmopolitanism in films such as Le Ballon Rouge Little Moth and Le Havre Surveying fictional and documentary film from the post war years until today the author shows how the child is a guide to themes of place self and being in world cinema Conflict Transformation and Social Change in Uganda Susanne Buckley-Zistel,2008-09-11 Drawing on the concept of hermeneutics the book argues that the successes and setbacks of conflict transformation in Teso can be understood through analyzing the impact of memory identity closure and power on social change and calls for a comprehensive effort of dealing with the past in war torn societies The Ashgate Research Companion to Memory Studies Siobhan Kattago,2016-03-23 Memory has long been a subject of fascination for poets artists philosophers and historians This timely volume edited by Siobhan Kattago examines how past events are remembered contested forgotten learned from and shared with others Each author in The Ashgate Research Companion to Memory Studies has been asked to reflect on his or her research companions as a scholar who studies memory The original studies presented in the volume are written by leading experts who emphasize both the continuity of heritage and tradition as well as the memory of hostilities traumas and painful events Comprised of four thematic sections The Ashgate Research Companion to Memory Studies provides a comprehensive overview of the latest research within the discipline The principal themes include Memory History and Time Social Psychological and Cultural Frameworks of Memory Acts and Places of Memory Politics of Memory Forgetting and Democracy Featuring contributions from key thinkers in the field this comprehensive volume will be a valuable resource for all academics and students working within this area of study Oral History ,2001 London and the Politics of Memory Stuart Burch,2019-07-09 This book provides an original impassioned exploration of memory studies and the uses of the past in the present It capitalises on London's global appeal and Big Ben's iconic status Moving beyond this familiar facade the reader will journey around the hidden histories of Westminster's streets squares and statues This tangible heritage supports a diversity of contested memories The rationale for this approach is that by linking theory with empirical examples it becomes possible to tackle complex issues in a grounded accessible manner Readers will be encouraged to use this case study as a framework for addressing the politics of memory in their own lives as well as in other places not just in Britain but around the world This book will be of interest to scholars and students from a wide variety of disciplines including but not limited to sociology culture and media studies English literature film and television studies global studies heritage studies history politics and human geography Making News Richard R. John,Jonathan Silberstein-Loeb,2015-09-24 How can the news business be re envisioned in a rapidly changing world Can market incentives and technological imperatives provide a way forward How important have been the institutional arrangements that protected the production and distribution of news in the past Making News charts the institutional arrangements that news providers in Britain and America have relied on since the late seventeenth century to facilitate the production and distribution of news. It is organized around eight original essays each written by a distinguished specialist and each explicitly comparative. Seven chapters survey the shifting institutional arrangements that facilitated the production and distribution of news in Britain and America in the period between 1688 and 1995. An eighth chapter surveys the news business following the commercialization of the Internet while the epilogue links past, present and future. Its theme is the indispensability in both Great Britain and the United States of non market institutional arrangements in the provisioning of news. Only rarely has advertising revenue and direct sales covered costs. Almost never has the demand for news generated the revenue necessary for its supply. The presumption that the news business can flourish in a marketplace of ideas has long been a civic ideal. In practice however the emergence of a genuinely competitive marketplace for the production and distribution of news has limited the resources for high quality news reporting. For the production of high quality journalism is a byproduct less of the market than of its supersession. And in particular it has long depended on the acquiescence of lawmakers in market limiting business strategies that have transformed journalism in the past and that will in all likelihood transform it once again in the future.

Censorship of Historical Thought Antoon De Baets, 2001-12-30. History is an important, dangerous and fragile subject. Historical thought can be censored in widely diverging political and historiographical contexts as historians are well aware. Yet the problems of censorship often thought to be obvious are rarely studied. Filling a significant void, this guide supplies information on the censorship of historical thought and the fate of persecuted historians in over 130 countries from Afghanistan to Zimbabwe and from 1945 to 2000. With each entry providing a chronological overview of cases and giving a full listing of sources, the book is the first systematic effort to overview the repression of historical thought. Aiming to encompass all countries in which censorship and persecution have taken place, De Baets sketches a world map of repression that goes beyond the well known and well studied cases. It assembles scattered data from three types of sources: the works of censors and censored historical and biographical dictionaries and historiographical surveys and reports from international human rights organizations. Showing the universality of historical censorship and its infinite variety in amount and degree, the book also provides a basis for further comparative research.

Writing as Resistance Paul Gready, 2003-01-01. Writing as Resistance charts the inner workings of apartheid through the encounters, imprisonment, exile and homecoming that crucially defined its violent reign and ultimate overthrow. Author Paul Gready demonstrates the transformative nature of autobiographical narrative as resistance in the context of political struggle. This multidisciplinary study addresses a range of important contemporary topics: migration, postcolonialism, globalization, nationalism, human rights and political democratization among others. While informed by the work of South African writers including Breytenbach, Coetzee, First, Krog, Modisane and Serote, and adding to the literature on the apartheid era, this book speaks to all cultures of violence. With this important work, Gready sheds new light on the relationship between violence and creativity.
