Miracles Still Happen My Pilgrim Journey Begins One:

In a Different Place Jill Dubisch, 2016-09-29 In a Different Place offers a richly textured account of a modern pilgrimage combining ethnographic detail theory and personal reflection Visited by thousands of pilgrims yearly the Church of the Madonna of the Annunciation on the Aegean island of Tinos is a site where different interests sacred and secular local and national personal and official all come together Exploring the shrine and its surrounding town Jill Dubisch shares her insights into the intersection of social religious and political life in Greece Along the way she develops the idea of pilgrimage journeying away from home in search of the miraculous as a metaphor for anthropological fieldwork This highly readable work offers us the opportunity to share one anthropologist's personal and professional journey and to see in a different place the inadequacy of such conventional anthropological categories as theory versus data rationality versus emotion and the observer versus the observed Dubisch examines in detail the process of pilgrimage itself its relationship to Orthodox belief and practice the motivations and behavior of pilgrims the relationship between religion and Greek national identity and the gendered nature of religious roles Seeking to evoke rather than simply describe her book presents readers with a sense of the emotion color and power of pilgrimage at this Greek island shrine My Camino One Last Walk Sean

Keener, 2011-11-01 Christianity Today 2013 Book Award Winner Winner of The Foundation for Pentecostal Scholarship's 2012 Award of Excellence 2011 Book of the Year Christianbook.com's Academic Blog Most modern prejudice against biblical miracle reports depends on David Hume's argument that uniform human experience precluded miracles Yet current research shows that human experience is far from uniform In fact hundreds of millions of people today claim to have experienced miracles New Testament scholar Craig Keener argues that it is time to rethink Hume's argument in light of the contemporary evidence available to us This wide ranging and meticulously researched two volume study presents the most thorough current defense of the credibility of the miracle reports in the Gospels and Acts Drawing on claims from a range of global cultures and taking a multidisciplinary approach to the topic Keener suggests that many miracle accounts throughout history and from contemporary times are best explained as genuine divine acts lending credence to the biblical miracle reports

world and God What's an American Doing Here? Reflections on Travel in the Third World Stanley C. Diamond, 2010-06
Stan Diamond's adventurous travel to remote corners of the world provides inspiration to the prospective and seasoned traveler alike. As a life-long educator, his observations about the value and meaning of such travel are thoughtful and informative while his encounters with all kinds of people in unusual places offer knowledge, humor, surprise, and joy. Stan's memoir begins with his childhood thumbing through pictures in an old World Book Encyclopedia and continues through his development as an enthusiastic voyager to some of the least likely destinations imaginable. So what else is there to worry about besides disease and sanitation, running out of gas, or unavailability of medical care? Well, maybe rockslides and landslides, storms and floods, frozen roads and crazy drivers, marauding bandits and slippery thieves, insurrections and civil wars, spewing volcanoes, and other such precarious hazards one might stumble upon. Frankly, I do not have any good advice for the reader about such things. Just try to avoid them if you can. Stan Diamond spent most of his life teaching children, directing schools, and writing about his educational ideas. In his retirement, he transformed those skills to become a popular lecturer, consultant, and author. He lives in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, with his wife Beverly.
