Subjects and Universal Grammar Yehuda N. Falk, 2006-08-10 The subject of a sentence is a concept that presents great challenges to linguists Most languages have something which looks like a subject but subjects differ across languages in their nature and properties making them an interesting phenomenon for those seeking linguistic universals This pioneering volume addresses subject nature from a simultaneously formal and typological perspective Dividing the subject into two distinct grammatical functions it shows how the nature of these functions explains their respective properties and argues that the split in properties shown in ergative languages whereby the subject of intransitive verbs is marked as an object results from the functions being assigned to different elements of the clause Drawing on data from a typologically wide variety of languages including English Hebrew Tagalog Inuit and Acehnese it explains why even in the case of very different languages certain core properties can be found

Schumacher, 2005-09-22 This book combines theoretical and experimental aspects of the establishment of dependency It provides an account of dependency relations by focusing on the representation and interpretation of referentially dependent elements particularly regular reflexives logophors and pronouns First the establishment of dependency is discussed within a model of syntax discourse correspondences that predicts an economy based dependency hierarchy contingent on the level of representation at which the dependency is formed as well as the internal structure of the dependent element and its antecedent Secondly the model's predictions are substantiated by a series of experimental studies conducted in English and Dutch providing evidence from three sources of online sentence comprehension reaction time studies Broca's aphasia patient studies and event related brain potential studies The findings show that dependencies are established at distinct levels of linguistic encoding i.e. syntax or discourse determined by the presence or absence of coargumenthood and the representation of the dependency forming elements
