problems guiding human decision making from early childhood up to complex professional and organizational decisions In artificial intelligence specifically preferences is a relatively new topic of relevance to nonmonotonic reasoning multiagent systems constraint satisfaction decision making social choice theory and decision theoretic planning The first part of this book deals with preference representation with specific chapters dedicated to representation languages nonmonotonic logics of preferences conditional preference networks positive and negative preferences and the study of preferences in cognitive psychology The second part of the book deals with reasoning with preferences and includes chapters dedicated to preference based argumentation preferences database queries and rank ordering outcomes and intervals The author concludes by examining forthcoming research perspectives This is inherently a multidisciplinary topic and this book will be of interest to computer scientists economists operations researchers mathematicians logicians philosophers and psychologists

Expected Utility Hypotheses and the Allais Paradox M. Allais, G.M. Hagen, 2013-03-14 Utility theory or value theory in general is certainly the cornerstone of decision theory game theory microeconomics and all social and political theories which deal with public decisions Recently the American School of utility founded by von Neumann Morgenstern encountered a far going criticism by the French School of utility represented by its founder Allais The whole basis of the theory of decisions involving risk has been shaken and put into question Consequently basic research in the fundamentals of utility and value theory evolved into a crisis Like any crisis in basic research and this one was not an exception it was very fruitful One may simply say Allais versus von Neumann Morgenstern or the French School of utility versus the American School became one of the battlefields of scientific development which proved to be a most creative source of new advances and new developments in all those sciences which are based on evaluation of utilities
