Bird, 2016-09-21 Analyzes the role of community in the writings of Giorgio Agamben Roberto Esposito and Jean Luc Nancy Community has been both celebrated and demonized as a fortress that shelters and defends its members from being exposed to difference Instead of abandoning community as an antiquated model of relationships that is ill suited for our globalized world this book turns to the writings of Giorgio Agamben Roberto Esposito and Jean Luc Nancy in search for ways to rethink community in an open and inclusive manner Greg Bird argues that a central piece of this task is found in how each philosopher rearticulates community not as something that is proper to those who belong and improper to those who are excluded or where inclusion is based on one's share in common property We must return to the forgotten dimension of sharing not as a sharing of things that we can contain and own but as a process that divides us up and shares us out in community with one another This book traces this problem through a wide array of fields ranging from biopolitics communitarianism existentialism phenomenology political economy radical philosophy and social theory The Pittsburgh

Pirates Encyclopedia David Finoli, Bill Ranier, 2003 Roberto's Dream: The Courage to Construct Pasquale De Marco, Roberto's Dream The Courage to Construct is a heartwarming story about a young termite with a big dream Roberto wants to be an architect but his family and friends don't believe in him They tell him that he should follow in their footsteps and become a termite exterminator Roberto isn't discouraged He knows that he has the talent and the determination to succeed So he leaves his home and sets off on a journey to the big city where he hopes to find a place where he can pursue his dream Along the way Roberto meets a cast of colorful characters who help him on his journey There's the wise old owl who shares his knowledge of architecture with Roberto There's the friendly spider who helps Roberto find a place to live in the big city And there's the hardworking ant who teaches Roberto the importance of perseverance Despite the challenges he faces

David Díaz Arias, Christine Hatzky, Werner Mackenbach, Sebastián Martínez Fernández, Joachim Michael, Hinnerk Onken, 2024-12-30. This volume shifts the focus from violence to peace studies in Latin America and sheds light on how social groups and individuals resist violence and strive to create peaceful or at least less violent conditions of conviviality. Drawing on social sciences, history, and anthropology, but also on cultural, literary, and film studies, the book examines the role of social mobilizations, civic activism, and cultural artistic initiatives as responses to the crisis of violence which the state is unable or unwilling to address. In this sense, it debates what a culture of peace could mean in Latin America. Divided into four chapters, Chapter 1 discusses peace from an epistemological and philosophical perspective. In Chapter 2, the authors discuss the contours of a culture of peace with a particular focus on literary and cinematic narratives. Chapter 3 analyses the public debate about the role of the state in peace processes in the case of Costa Rica, Central America. Chapter 4 examines the importance of civil society activities in peace processes. Peace in Latin America is written for a wide and diverse audience that includes researchers, professors, specialists, students, civil society activists, and political actors, not only from Latin America but from all over the world. Conversations of the Mind

Rebecca William Mlynarczyk, 2013-10-18. Asking students to write journals that reflect on their learning has become a widespread pedagogical practice in recent years. However, the scholarly literature does not address certain key questions about how journal writing aids learning. Is there something inherent in journal writing that encourages students to write reflectively? What psycholinguistic or cognitive factors help to explain the power of journal writing? Why do some students use journals to write prolifically and creatively, while others limit their responses to summarizing the assigned course reading? Why do teachers find some journal entries so much more engaging than others? How do teachers' ways of responding to journals affect their students' development as writers and thinkers? This book addresses such questions through a careful analysis of the journal writing of the students in the author's ESL classes at a large urban college. It contains detailed case studies of five culturally and linguistically diverse students with widely differing responses to journal writing. To teachers of composition for both first and second language students and to teachers of graduate courses in education and qualitative research, this book offers a contextualized description of journal writings as a complex social activity. By emphasizing the need for educators to reexamine their pedagogy and to learn from their students, Conversations of the Mind is an indispensable contribution to the emerging

Musical Listening in the Age of Technological Reproduction

Gianmario Borio, 2016-04-29 It is undeniable that technology has made a tangible impact on the nature of musical listening. The new media have changed our relationship with music in a myriad of ways not least because the experience of listening can now be prolonged at will and repeated at any time and in any space. Moreover, among the more striking social phenomena ushered in by the technological revolution, one cannot fail to mention music's current status as a commodity and popular music's unprecedented global reach. In response to these new social and perceptual conditions, the act of listening has diversified into a wide range of patterns of behaviour which seem to resist any attempt at unification. Concentrated listening, the form of musical reception fostered by Western art music, now appears to be but one of the many ways in which audiences respond to organized sound. Cinema, for example, has developed specific ways of combining images and sounds, and more recently digital technology has redefined the standard forms of mass communication. Information is aestheticized, and music in turn is incorporated into pre-existing symbolic fields. This volume, the first in the series Musical Cultures of the Twentieth Century, offers a wide-ranging exploration of the relations between sound technology and listening practices, considered from the complementary perspectives of art music and popular music, music theatre and multimedia composition and performance, ethnographic and anthropological research.

Improving Learner Reflection for TESOL

Li-Shih Huang, 2021-06-03 Presenting comprehensive research conducted with learners and educators in a range of settings, this volume showcases self-reflection as a powerful tool to enhance student learning. The text builds on empirical insights to illustrate how language professionals can foster critical self-reflection amongst learners of English as an additional language. This text uses ecologically sensitive practitioner research that addresses issues of both practical and pedagogical significance in the fields of TESOL language teaching and learning and teacher education. By synthesizing interdisciplinary research and theory, chapters show how various types of self-reflection, including guided and non-guided group and individual forms and written oral and technology-mediated reflection, can promote autonomous self-regulated learning amongst students at various levels. Whilst offering readers a strong grounding in the theoretical and empirical knowledge that supports self-reflection, the volume gives constant attention to praxis, with a focus on effective pedagogical strategies and tools needed to implement, encourage, and evaluate critical learner reflection in readers' own teaching or research. This volume will be a critical resource for language teaching professionals interested in critical learner reflection, including in-service pre-service and teacher educators in the field of TESOL. Scholars and researchers in the fields of applied linguistics and language education more broadly will find this volume valuable.

The Routledge Companion to Marxisms in Art History

Tijen Tunali, Brian Winkenweder, 2025-03-31 This companion is an essential contribution to the study of historical materialism in general and the social history of art in particular.
