Reflections At Fifty And Other Essays:

Reflections at fifty, and other essays James T. (James Thomas) Farrell, Mary Hricko, 2013-09-05 This study examines the genesis of Chicago's two identified literary renaissance periods 1890-1920 and 1930-1950 through the writings of Dreiser, Hughes, Wright and Farrell. The relationship of these four writers demonstrates a continuity of thought between the two renaissance periods. By noting the affinities of these writers' patterns such as the rise of the city novel, the development of urban realism, and the shift to modernism, are identified as significant connections between the two periods. Although Dreiser, Wright and Farrell are more commonly thought of as Chicago writers, this study argues that Langston Hughes is a transitional pivotal figure between the two periods. Through close readings and contextualization, the influence of Chicago writing on American literature in such areas as realism and naturalism, as well as proletarian and ethnic fiction, becomes apparent.

A Question of Quality Louis Filler, 1976 The subjects treated in this symposium have one major characteristic in common: that they have recently or relatively recently enjoyed high popularity among readers. Also, they have received from substantial to torrents of comment.

Backgazing: Reverse Time in Modernist Culture Paul Giles, 2019-02-14 This volume traces ways in which time is represented in reverse forms throughout modernist culture from the beginning of the twentieth century until the decade after World War II. Though modernism is often associated with revolutionary or futurist directions, this book argues instead that a retrograde dimension is embedded within it. By juxtaposing the literature of Europe and North America with that of Australia and New Zealand, it suggests how this antipodean context serves to defamiliarize and reconceptualize normative modernist understandings of temporal progression. Backgazing thus moves beyond the treatment of a specific geographical periphery as another margin on the expanding field of New Modernist Studies. Instead, it offers a systematic investigation of the transformative effect of retrograde dimensions on our understanding of canonical modernist texts. The title backgazing is taken from Australian poet Robert G. Fitzgerald's 1938 poem Essay on Memory, and it epitomizes how the cultural history of modernism can be restructured according to a radically different discursive map. Backgazing intellectually reconfigures US and European modernism within a planetary orbit in which the literature of Australia and the Southern Hemisphere, far from being merely an annexed margin, can be seen substantively to change the directional compass of modernism more generally. By reading canonical modernists such as James Joyce and T. S. Eliot alongside marginalized writers such as Nancy Cunard and others and relatively neglected authors from Australia and New Zealand, this book offers a revisionist cultural history of modernist time, one framed by a recognition of how its measurement is modulated across geographical space.
