time for readers Becoming widely available in the eighteenth century when working hours increased and lighter and quicker forms of reading newspapers magazines broadsheets surged in popularity the material form of the codex book invited readers to situate themselves creatively in time Drawing on letters diaries reading logs and a range of eighteenth and early nineteenth century novels Christina Lupton s Reading and the Making of Time in the Eighteenth Century concretely describes how book readers of the past carved up expanded and anticipated time Placing canonical works by Elizabeth Inchbald Henry Fielding Amelia Opie and Samuel Richardson alongside those of lesser known authors and readers Lupton approaches books as objects that are good at attracting particular forms of attention and paths of return In contrast to the digital interfaces of our own moment and the ephemeral newspapers and pamphlets read in the 1700s books are rarely seen as shaping or keeping modern time However as Lupton demonstrates books are often put down and picked up they are leafed through as well as read sequentially and they are handed on as objects designed to bridge temporal distances In showing how discourse itself engages with these material practices Lupton argues that reading is something to be studied textually as well as historically Applying modern theorists such as Niklas Luhmann Bruno Latour and Bernard Stiegler Lupton offers a rare phenomenological approach to the study of a concrete historical field This compelling book stands out for the combination of archival research smart theoretical inquiry and autobiographical reflection it brings into play Radiance and Reflection Jane Hayward, Walter Cahn, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 1982 Religious Thought in England in the Nineteenth Century John Hunt, 1896 Summarizes the works and views of theologians and intellectual leaders with brief biographies p 363 396 and discusses the content and significance of important series and lectureships scholars and students The 11 volume series gives an accessible account of each philosopher's work but also explains their relationship to the work of other philosophers The Flaneur in Nineteenth-Century British Literary Culture Isabel Vila-Cabanes, 2018-10-15 The flaneur is a cultural and literary phenomenon usually associated with nineteenth century Paris but the type also exists in the artistic and literary panorama of other major European capitals such as London Berlin and Moscow Despite massive recent interest in the figure of the flaneur in scholarly studies analyses about the nineteenth century British analogue are often fragmentary appearing in the form of isolated articles However there is an abundant amount of nineteenth century novels sketches and journalistic essays which offer remarkable and hitherto overlooked accounts of the British metropolis and which frequently include the figure of the flaneur as a central character or the topic of flanerie as a theme This book explores a great array of texts making an essential contribution to our knowledge and understanding of the prehistory or rather history of the British flaneur from the early eighteenth century to the early twentieth century with a special focus on the nineteenth century The flaneur is looked at as a figure in which the development and dynamics of the modern metropolis and its impact on the literary discourse are manifested from a formal as well as thematic perspective The Posthuman Condition in 21st Century Literature and Culture María

Ferrández-Sanmiguel, Esther Muñoz-González, Carmen Laguarda-Bueno, 2025-06-18 More than a decade after its first definitions critical posthumanism has become consolidated as a key discourse for the understanding of our contemporary state of being within what has been called the paradigm of posthumanity but also crucially as an ideology and a praxis that guides our engagements with the world around us This double dimension characterizes the contributions to this volume They resort to critical posthumanism in its most recent developments as a set of tools for critical and cultural analysis of our posthuman times as posthumanist concerns manifest in our cultural products This volume studies the most recent evolutions in the field of critical posthumanism as represented in key novels and other screened popular cultural products produced in the first and second decades of the twenty first century Resorting to the analytical tools provided by critical posthumanist theory in cross disciplinary dialogue with other fields such as transhumanism feminist gender and queer theory vulnerability studies new materialism critical animal studies and environmental theory the scholars whose work this volume showcases bear witness to how literature and popular culture have been influenced and impressed by posthumanism Chapters 1 5 7 8 and 12 are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via Springerlink

Gillin, 2023-12-22 Sound and Science in Nineteenth Century Britain is a four volume set of primary sources which seeks to define our historical understanding of the relationship between British scientific knowledge and sound between 1815 and

1900 In the context of rapid urbanization and industrialization as well as a growing overseas empire Britain was home to a rich scientific culture in which the ear was as valuable an organ as the eye for examining nature Experiments on how sound behaved informed new understandings of how a diverse array of natural phenomena operated notably those of heat light and electro magnetism In nineteenth century Britain sound was not just a phenomenon to be studied but central to the practice of science itself and broader understandings over nature and the universe This collection accompanied by extensive editorial commentary will be of great interest to students and scholars of the History of Science
