Myths and Mythical Spaces Claudia Lichnofsky, Enriketa Pandejmoni, Darko Stojanov, 2017-12-04 This volume addresses textbooks written in the Albanian language and in use in Albania Kosovo Macedonia and Serbia Political myths and mythical spaces play a key role in shaping processes of identity building concepts of self and other and ideas pertaining to the location of the self and nation within a post conflict context The Albanian case is particularly interesting because the majority of Albanians live outside the borders of Albania despite the existence of the nation state which gives rise to fascinating complexities regarding the shaping of national identities and myths surrounding concepts of self and other What textbooks teach is always of political interest as they represent society's intentions for its next generation This renders identity building processes via textbooks in this context a particularly fascinating topic for research here examined through the lens of myths and mythical spaces

Geography Education Research in the UK: Retrospect and Prospect Graham Butt, 2019-08-22 This book provides a unique assessment of the development of research in geography education and its future prospects offering a challenging critique of subject based education research with particular reference to geography education across a range of different jurisdictions It covers a range of topics including the changing role of research in geography education the relationship between education research and professional practice with special reference to geography education research the place of academic subject knowledge in geography education research critiques of the functions of research in geography education and the key issues for education policy and policymakers concerning educational research at national and international levels Importantly in a period marked by radical change for education research and researchers the book offers a timely appraisal of possible ways forward for geography education research Addressing the needs of academics research students policymakers and education practitioners who undertake use or shape the future of research in geography education it comprehensively explores the forces that have driven the development of geography education research and pedagogy Further by positioning its analysis in the context of education policy debates in the UK and further afield it assesses the role and function of research in education and offers an outlook on its future This book is essential reading for all those who wish to understand the sporadic and increasingly uncertain development of subject based research in education      Postcolonial Wales Jane Aaron,Chris Williams,2005 A collection of diverse essays discussing the culture and politics of post devolution Wales 10 black and white illustrations      Constructing History 11-19 Hilary Cooper,Arthur Chapman,2009-07-09 This book describes and exemplifies strategies for teaching history across the 11 19 age range in rigorous and enjoyable ways It illustrates active learning approaches embedded in pupil led enquiries through detailed case studies which involve students in planning and carrying out historical enquiries creating accounts and presenting them to audiences in ways that develop increasingly sophisticated historical thinking The case studies took place in a number of different localities and show how practising teachers worked with pupils during each year from Y6 7 to Y 13 to initiate plan and implement enquiries and to present their findings in a variety of ways Each case study is a practical example which teachers can use as a model and modify for their own contexts showing how independent learning linked to group collaboration and peer assessment can enhance learning Social constructivist theories of learning applied to historical thinking underpin the book with particular emphasis on links between personalised and collaborative learning and e learning      Books In Print 2004-2005 Ed Bowker Staff,Staff Bowker, Ed,2004      Handbook of Research in Social Studies Education Linda S. Benson,2003 How to Meet Standards

Motivate Students and Still Enjoy Teaching is a truly outstanding practical resource that should be in every educator's professional library. It succeeds beautifully with the complex challenge of defining a classroom in which standards come alive for teachers and students in a doable manner. From the Foreword by Spence Rogers, Founder and Director, Peak Learning Systems. Most states in the USA have adopted some form of standards and accountability into their systems but few teachers understand how to model their classrooms to prepare their students to thrive in this new educational environment. In this book, the author offers teachers the tools they need to build the standards-based classroom. Rather than throwing away all their valuable techniques and experience, teachers learn to synthesize the best of what they already know and do with current and emerging research on learning and learners. The four components of the standards-based classroom will help teachers plan lessons, assess student work, and create a community of learning that meets the standards that have been set for their students.

Books in Print Supplement, 2002      Learning to Teach History in the Secondary School Terry Haydn, Alison Stephen, James Arthur, Martin Hunt, 2014-10-10. An excellent companion to Learning to Teach in Secondary School, full of good ideas and better advice. Mentors will certainly want to use it, and so I'm sure will the rest of the history department. Make sure they buy one and keep your copy under lock and key. Michael Duffy, Times Educational Supplement. A very well-written and readable book. Overall, this is an excellent book and one which students and teachers outwith England would find a valuable addition to their library. Scottish Association of Teachers of History Resources Review. This book is without question the standard text for the history PGCE market. Dr Ian Davies, University of York on the first edition. Learning to Teach History in the Secondary School provides an accessible introduction to teaching and learning history at secondary level. Underpinned by a theoretical perspective and backed up by the latest research, it encourages student teachers to develop a personal approach to teaching history. This fourth edition has been thoroughly updated for the new curriculum with a brand new chapter on subject knowledge and a new section on action research to better support those reflecting on and developing their own practice. It provides an array of references and materials that give a sound theoretical foundation for the teaching of history, including weblinks to further resources, while a range of tasks will enable students to put their learning into practice in the classroom. Practical advice is combined with reference and access to a wide range of recent and relevant research in the field of history education to support Masters Level research and aid reflective practice. Key issues covered include: The benefits of learning history, Planning, The use of language and strategies for teaching, Inclusion, Technology in history teaching, Assessment, Continuing professional development. Offering comprehensive and accessible support to becoming a history teacher, this book remains an invaluable resource for all training and newly qualified history teachers.
