1. 40 years of China's reform and development: How reform captured China's demographic dividend

Cai Fang, Ross Garnaut and Ligang Song<sup>1</sup>

China's reform, opening-up and resultant economic growth in the past 40 years provide a new constellation of experience we can study to understand the nature of modern economic growth. This chapter describes the process of reform and opening-up of the economy, and its nexus to accelerated economic growth. It describes and provides some data on the experience of trade and growth over the past 40 years. It sketches some of the main elements of reform, changes in incentives that have driven economic growth, changes in economic structure that have followed and the rising role of China in the global economy. It highlights new challenges that China faces after 40 years of reform.

Introduction

The eleventh Central Committee of the Communist Party of China (CPC) held its third plenum from 18 to 22 December 1978. This meeting reestablished an older CPC ideological line of 'seeking truth from facts'. It decided to shift the focus from political movement to economic development. This laid the foundation for reform and opening-up.

In the winter of the same year, Xiaogang, one of the poorest villages in Fengyang county in Anhui province, abandoned its collective brigade production structure and became the pioneer for contracting collectively owned land to households. Such a practice—later known as the household responsibility system (HRS)—spread nationwide in the early 1980s and replaced the people's commune system that had existed for a quarter of a century. This was the first break in the planned economy.

China initiated the change from central planning to mainly market exchange simultaneously with opening up to international trade and investment. Domestic economic development and participation in economic globalisation have marched forward hand in hand.<sup>2</sup>

THE CHINESE PATH Xinyuan He, 2023-09-18. Since the Opium War of 1840, China has pioneered a uniquely Chinese Path to modernization, created a new model for human advancement, and expanded the channels for developing countries to achieve modernization. The formation and extension of the Chinese Path shows that modernization need not mean Westernization. By reviewing the marvels that have taken place in the evolution of the Path, the book reveals the inevitability of the formation of the Chinese Path, highlights its uniqueness, advantages, and dynamics, and its relevance for humanity's search for alternative ways to successfully modernize. It provides both a diachronic account of the intrinsic vitality and a synchronic interpretation of the superiority of the Chinese Path, despite the so many twists and turns China has gone through. The message it delivers is loud and clear: the Chinese Path, which is completely different from the Western path to modernization, is a sure path to realizing the rejuvenation and modernization of the Chinese nation and offers a Chinese approach to solving problems facing humankind.

Discovering Chinese Nationalism in China Yongnian Zheng, 1999-04-28. This book explores the revival of Chinese nationalism in the 1990s and analyses the ways in which the West deals with this phenomenon. Yongnian Zheng discusses the complicated nature of China's new nationalism and presents the reader with a very different picture to that portrayed in Western readings of Chinese nationalism. He argues that China's new nationalism has been a reaction to changes in the country's international circumstances and can be regarded as a voice over the existing unjustified international order. Zheng shows that the present Chinese leadership is pursuing strategies not to isolate China but to integrate it into the international community. Based on the author's extensive research in China, the book provides a set of provocative arguments against prevailing Western attitudes to and perceptions of China's nationalism.

Civil-Military Relations in Post-Deng China Nan Li, 2020-10-01. This book demonstrates that civil-military relations have evolved beyond symbiosis to quasi-institutionalization in post-Deng Xiaoping China. As the People's Liberation Army (PLA) is a Leninist party army, it is commonly assumed that the relationship between the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) and the PLA is symbiotic and institutional boundaries based on a clear functional division of labor are absent between the two. This symbiosis suggests that the primary role of the PLA in China's domestic politics is to participate in intra-CCP leadership power struggle and in defending the CCP regime against popular rebellions from within Chinese society. By analyzing major changes in the functions of the PLA political commissar system, the extent of the PLA involvement in the power struggle of the CCP leadership, and the circulation of elites across civil military institutional boundaries this book offers a new theoretical explanation of civil military relations in China It also discusses the implications of the findings for China s domestic politics and foreign policy

China Under Reform Zhimin Lin,2014-09-02 In 1976 at the death of its longtime leader Mao Zedong China was in a state of economic stagnation and social chaos Mao's radical policies and continual political campaigns including the disastrous Cultural Revolution had taken a heavy toll on the Chinese people. By the end of the decade, however, a more moderate pragmatic leadership under Deng Xiaoping had come to power and put China on a course to recovery. In the four decades since then, China's economic growth has been nothing short of amazing. China is now one of the world's leading manufacturing centers and an estimated 400 million of its people have been lifted out of poverty. Still, problems remain. Among them are a growing gap in living standards between rural and urban areas, rampant corruption, and a repressive government that has resisted political reforms. This volume provides a comprehensive view of China's historic reforms. It not only details what has been accomplished so far but also offers a glimpse at what the future might hold for the world's most populous nation. China's New Diplomacy Zhiqun Zhu, 2013. This fully revised second edition covers Chinese initiatives in the Middle East, Latin America, and the Caribbean, Africa, Central Asia, Southeast Asia, and the South Pacific, and studies China's current efforts to secure energy and other resources to expand trade and investment and to enhance soft power around the world. The author further evaluates how China's activities affect these regions' political economy and how the international community, especially the United States, has reacted to China's new diplomacy. This volume continues to answer some lingering questions about Chinese foreign policy and its implications for both China and the international community as they become increasingly interdependent.
