critical introduction to the historical cultural and aesthetic evolution of twentieth century Chinese spoken drama. Primarily comprising works from the People's Republic of China though including representative plays from Hong Kong and Taiwan, this collection not only showcases the revolutionary rethinking of Chinese theater and performance that began in the late Qing dynasty. It also highlights the formation of Chinese national and gender identities during a period of tremendous social and political change along with the genesis of contemporary attitudes toward the West. Early twentieth century Chinese drama embodies the uncertainty and anxiety brought on by modernism, socialism, political conflict and war. After 1949 PRC theater painted a complex portrait of the rise of communism in China with the ideals of Chinese socialism juxtaposed against the sacrifices made for a new society. The Cultural Revolution promoted a model theater cultivated from the achievements of earlier leftist spoken drama even though this theater arose from the destruction of old culture. Post Mao drama addresses the socialist legacy and the attempts of a wounded nation to reexamine its cultural roots. Taiwan's spoken drama synthesizes regional and foreign traditions and Hong Kong's spoken drama sparkles as a hybrid of Chinese and Western influences. Immensely valuable for cross disciplinary comparative and performance study, this anthology provides essential perspective on China's theatricality and representation of political life.

Ezra Pound and the Appropriation of Chinese Poetry Ming Xie, 2015-12-22. This book focuses on the relations between the translation and appropriation of classical Chinese poetry by Ezra Pound and some of his contemporaries and the development of Anglo American Imagist poetry and poetics. It is concerned as much with critical aspects of this correlative relationship as with the question of historical influence and ascription. The author places the early work of Ezra Pound in the context of works of Chinese translation by other contemporary poet translators such as Arthur Waley and Amy Lowell and examines the whole notion of an ideogrammic poetry as advocated by Ernest Fenollosa and Ezra Pound against an appropriately reconstructed historical and critical context of poetic theory and practice. Closely linked to this is a discussion of Pound's use of personae and modulation of the elegiac in relation to the immediately preceding context of late Victorian elegiac lyricism and Brownianesque dramatic monologue. Through a series of close readings of translations from the Chinese especially those by Pound, the author shows how the critical problem of what is involved in translating a Chinese poem into a new English poem is closely linked to the particulars of early Modernist literary history. In particular, through tracing the trajectory of a number of central issues and notions such as absolute free floating metaphor, metaphor as epiphanic image and its relation to syntax, metaphor and parallelism, experiments with rhythm and cadence, the book explores some of the reasons for Fenollosa's and Pound's emphasis on the visual image, the notion of phanopoeia and ideogrammic verbal action as the active perceiving of relations and closely examines the genesis and significance of Pound's ideogrammic method as well as the question of cultural misreading and vicarious envisagement and provides a critical overview of Pound's general engagement with translation.
